Huntington Beach Boy Killed In Automobile Accident

ALL HOPE FOR BRITISH FLYER ABANDONED

JAPANESE IS HELD

Driver of Truck Which Hit Small Coupe Is In Jail On Manslaughter Charge

FRANKIE McGUIRE, 7-year-old son of Frank McGuire, Huntington Beach school bus driver, was almost instantly killed and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bradley, 233 First street, Huntington Beach, were slightly injured, when the small coupe in which they were riding, was struck by a vegetable truck, driven by Masso Habarjashi, 29, 962 Crocker street, Los Angeles, early last night.

The accident occurred one and one-half miles south of Talbert on the Santa Ana-Huntington Beach road.

Deputy Sheriffs Steward and Hubbard arrested Habarjashi and the holding him in the county jail pending a coroner's inquest which has been ordered. The Japanese is booked at the jail on a manslaughter charge.

According to a report of the investigation of the accident made by deputy sheriffs, the Bradley machine, headed south, had stopped on the extreme right side of the road, with two wheels off the pavement. The truck, coming from the south, on the wrong side of the hoad, crashed headon into the small car, turning it over.

Mrs. Bradley was reported thrown clear of the car. The broken windshield severed the juglar vein in your McGuire's throat and he died before medical aid could be summoned. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley suffered only cuts and bruises. They were taken by Huntington Beach police officers, Shaffer and Cox, to the Huntington Beach hospital.

According to the sheriff's office report, the left fender of the heavy vegetable truck struck the small coupe's radiator almost squarely in the center, indicating that Habarjashi was well over on the left side of the road at the time of the accident, it was said.

Al Warren of the Palisades road, and Oliver Jones, who resides near the scene of the accident were the first persons to the scene after the crash. They called officers.

The body of young McGuire was removed to the Dixon funeral parlors at Huntington Beach where an inquest will probably be conducted this afternoon, according to Coroner Brown.

Lone Aviator Thought Down In Mid Ocean

Last Seen 700 Miles Out of Newfoundland—Believed To Have Struck Storm

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(UP)—The name of Lieut. Commander H. C. Macdonald was added today to the long list of those who have disappeared mysteriously as they sought to fly across the North Atlantic. Only a few believed he ever would be found or his story ever learned.

Alone and with a daring comparable only to that shown by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Macdonald started from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland Wednesday noon (New York time) in a tiny Gypsy Moth plane.

His plane was sighted once. The steamer Hardenberg messages the Leviathan that a plane had passed over her at 12:30 a. m. GMT Friday. That was at a position more than 700 miles east of Newfoundland.

Between there and the Irish coast the tiny Moth plane would have encountered vicious storms, one that ripped over the Atlantic with wind velocities ranging between 40 and 50 miles an hour.

And today all along the Irish coast and in England there was no trace of the gallant young naval officer who set out to get a great thrill.

There were a few who held to the hope that Macdonald's luck—the luck that carried him successfully through a submarine campaign in the world war and the luck which saved him from cannabalistic tribesmen near Bagdad—still held with the novitate pilot.

They pointed out that after he had been sighted by the Hardenberg he might have been carried off course by the high winds and might have landed on the northern tip of Scotland or the British Isles. Other hopefuls said he might have been forced to land on Iceland.

But most observers, who have watched a host of illustrious pilots start gaily on the great cross-ocean adventure never to return, felt that Macdonald was dead, with the one slender chance of life resting in his plane having landed near some non-wireless ship which might have been along the transatlantic course.

Up in the little Kensington home, where Macdonald, his wife and one child lived there was still hope.

"I feel sure he will get here," Mrs. Macdonald told newspapermen who congregated at her home.

Her eyes were bloodshot from long sleepless hours and she was plainly nervous, but she seemed to have the greatest confidence in her shy and reticent husband who started on the great flying adventure without the usual fanfare of publicity.

LITA GREY CHAPLIN IN VAUDEVILLE ROLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—(INS)—Lita Grey Chaplin, divorced wife of Charlie Chaplin, will make her local debut in vaudeville here Saturday. Asked to comment upon her reported engagement to Roy D'Arcy, film actor, Mrs. Chaplin replied:

Church Deputies Asked To Oppose Death Penalties

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(UP)—As William Edward Hickman prepared to mount the gallows in San Quentin prison today, Albert Broadhurst, lay delegate to the house of deputies, introduced a resolution at the general Episcopal convention here calling upon that body to oppose capital punishment.

Amid cries of "No! No!" and "Table it," the resolution was shelved.

Broadhurst, a resident of Tutsville, Pa., suggested the Hickman case presented an instance of the need for abolishing the death penalty.

Los Angeles And Police Are Sued

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—(INS)—Chief of Police James B. E. Davis, Captain of Police J. J. Jones and the city of Los Angeles were named defendants today in a damage suit for $505,300 filed in superior court by Attorney S. S. Hahn on behalf of Mrs. Christina Collins.

The suit charged that Mrs. Collins had been falsely imprisoned, had suffered great mental distress, serious injury to her health and loss of her position during her five day incarceration in the psychopathic ward.

SMITH CLOSES CAMPAIGN IN WEST TONIGHT

Will Speak in Chicago to Record Crowd—Parade Scheduled For Today

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith is to conclude his personal campaign in the west today with a 40-mile automobile tour of Chicago and a farewell night speech. It is to be his biggest day of the campaign thus far in many respects.

His motor parade route is to carry him to the north, west and south sides and all around the town.

Tens and perhaps hundreds of thousands of persons are expected to line the way for a glimpse of the Democratic presidential nominee's brown derby smile. Newspapers here all have advertised in minute detail, in double-columned stories on the first pages, the places he will go and just about the time he will pass the important street intersections.

Police have been ordered to be stationed as close as possible over the entire route to prevent a repetition of the tumultuous scenes at some other cities where crowds overwhelmed the police.

Smith is scheduled to start at noon from his downtown hotel. The schedule calls for a two and a half hour parade.

The governor has practically finished the speech he is to de-

BODY OF AIL MAIL AVIATOR LOCATED

CLARION, Pa., Oct. 19.—(INS)—The body of William C. Hopson, New York-to-Cleveland air mail pilot, was found in the wreckage of his burned plane near Polk, six miles southwest of Franklin, Pa., at 7 a. m. today, according to word received at the airport here.

The burned body, lying in the cockpit of the plane, was found by J. C. Hayes, one of a party which set out to search for him when the aviator apparently lost his way in the fog and storm early yesterday and flew off his course.

According to information here, a large portion of the 1000 pounds of mail was destroyed by fire which caused Hopson's death.

WIFE KILLER DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

NEBRASKA STATE PRISON, LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 19.—(UP)—Frank Sharp was electrocuted here today for murdering his wife with a hammer.

Two juries had found Sharp guilty on circumstantial evidence and the supreme court upheld the second conviction, which carried with it the death sentence.

PRESIDENT TO REFUTE CHARGE BY GOV. SMITH

Coolidge to Make Address As Defense of Administration's Record

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(UP)—President Coolidge, it was believed here today, will enter the presidential campaign dramatically in defense of the repeated charges by Governor Alfred E. Smith that the administration is "misrepresenting" the true situation in its economy claims.

His speech would constitute not only a defense of the administration, but also a campaign speech for Herbert Hoover, who is standing upon the administration's record.

President Coolidge, according to his friends, has been hesitant about entering the campaign, despite a desire to aid Hoover.

There is only one precedent for it, the active campaign conducted by President Roosevelt for William Howard Taft, who was secretary of war in his cabinet when nominated.

But the repeated charge of the democratic presidential candidate has changed the situation, his friends point out, and they believe he will enter the campaign. Smith has attacked the administration and singled out Coolidge personally in his charges. The presidential entry into the campaign, therefore, might be considered as a matter of course, which could not be misunderstood, his friends say.

New York, Massachusetts, or this city have been suggested as places for the speech. The president might make more than one. Mr. Coolidge's Fredericksburg, Va., speech today was not interpreted a campaign speech in the usual sense.

Hoover continued his round of conferences with political leaders at his Massachusetts avenue headquarters today. He has practically completed the speech he will deliver in New York Monday night in Madison Square Garden.

DISCUSS MARKETS FOR STATE FRUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—(UP)—New foreign markets for California's fresh fruit and vegetables was the subject of discussion here today by the California Development association in annual session.

COUNTY JUNIOR COLLEGE TOPIC AT CONCLAVE

Fullerton School Board Is Ordered to Seek Data On Available Sites

FORMATION of a union junior college in northern Orange county was declared a step nearer today following a meeting of trustees of the Fullerton, Brea-Olinda and Anaheim union high schools at McFarland's cafe, Fullerton, last night, when a decision was made to have the Fullerton board seek additional data on available sites for the proposed college.

Members of the boards present were unanimous in approving the junior college project, it was announced today by S. C. Hartranft, president of the Fullerton board.

According to those present at the meeting, sentiment in northern Orange county is in favor of a union junior college providing a central location is decided upon.

The Anaheim Chamber of Commerce recently adopted a resolution favoring the college project providing the buildings were located on Orangethorpe avenue.

The Fullerton board will report back in 30 days, Hartranft said.

The Union Oil company recently offered to sell 40 acres of land near Fullerton for the college and it expected that the trustees will make an inspection of the property within a few days.

Louis Plummer, principal of the Fullerton high school and the junior college told of the growth of the college in the past few years.

BANKER KILLED, 7 HURT IN PLANE FALL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 19.—(UP)—W. Octave Chanute, Denver banker, was killed and seven other persons were injured when a Junkers monoplane fell 600 feet and crashed in the mud flats near the Lulu Temple Yacht club yesterday.

Four of those injured were bankers, attending the 17th annual convention of the Investment Bankers' association.

The airplane, sister ship of the Bremen which made the first east to west crossing of the Atlantic, had been on a sightseeing tour above the city. There were seven passengers on board.

George King, pilot of the plane, reported that a nervous passenger, becoming panicky as the plane banked sharply for turn and landing at Bader field, gripped one of the dual controls, bringing the machine into a headlong plunge to the ground.

Oriental Fad Is Striking Paris

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Paris shops are reflecting an "Oriental wave."

Variations of the willow pattern are being worked into "la mode" by the costumiers, styles of handbags show the same tendency, while in men's fashions, pipes, walking-sticks and cigarette lighters are equally susceptible to the influence of the Far East.

Cigarette cases and lighters with colored Chinese designs are a feature of the high-class tobacconists in the Rue de la Paix and Place Vendome. The limit in novelty for women has been reached with tiny lighters, fitted with watch and barometer on either side, both bearing Chinese designs.

The party was met at the train by Assistant Secretary of War Davison, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Warner and Major Frank Kennedy of the U. S. air corps. Kennedy flew across the Atlantic with Eckener in the ZR-3.

A small crowd had gathered at the station and the hotel to which the Graf Zeppelin party was driven, due largely it was thought, because of the early hour.

Dr. Eckener received newspapermen and photographers shortly after 7:30 a. m. and posed patiently and outlined his plans for the rest of his stay in America.

He plans to leave Lakehurst, N. J., in the Graf Zeppelin early Wednesday and fly to Scott field, Belleville, Ill., and stop there for the night.

On Thursday he will fly over Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland, returning to Lakehurst on Thursday night. Dr. Eckener said the Scott field stop would be the only one the craft would make.

His plans call for departure for Europe on Saturday. Dr. Eckener explained he was hastening the return because bad weather already had set in over the Atlantic and he wished to avoid as much of it as possible.

GALENA, Ohio, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Two passengers and two trainmen were injured when Pennsylvania passenger train No. 835, en route to Columbus from Cleveland, was derailed near here today.

The wreck occurred at Plum's Crossing and apparently was caused by a broken rail. The train consisted of a locomotive and four coaches.

The engine turned over and was partially buried in an embankment. The four coaches turned over and ripped up the right-of-way for a quarter of a mile, yet 60 passengers escaped injury.

PAYS DEATH PENALTY AT SAN QUENTIN

Drops Through Gallows to Eternity at 10:10 a. m. Today; Dead at 10:25

DOES NOT FALTER

Walks With Firm Step Up 13 Steps of Scaffold; L. A. Detective Faints

BY WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service Special Correspondent

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif., Oct. 19.—(INS)—Grimly cool to the threshold of eternity, William Edward Hickman, 21, of Kansas City, Mo., dropped through the gallows to his death at 10:10 o'clock this morning for the kidnaping and murder of 12-year-old Marion Parker of Los Angeles. Twenty-two seconds after he had entered the death chamber the noose had been adjusted and the trap was sprung.

Hickman was pronounced dead at 10:25 o'clock by Dr. Ralph Blecker and Dr. L. L. Robinson of the prison staff exactly fifteen minutes after the trap had been sprung.

Detective Dick Lucas, veteran Los Angeles police officer who obtained Hickman's confession after the crime fainted immediately after the execution.

Buoyed up by religious ecstasy Hickman walked with firm tread up the fatal 13 steps of the light green scaffold.

He studiously avoided the gaze of the 200 or more persons gathered below to see his punishment for a crime which shocked the civilized world.

He looked over and above the heads of the crowds, his neck drawn back as he started upward. It appeared to the crowd that he was about to collapse but this was only his legs crumpling under him as the trap dropped with a thud which brought exclamations from the closely grouped spectators.

The death parade entered the death chamber a few seconds before 10:10 o'clock. Warden James B. Holohan, tall, broad shouldered stern faced man, was in the lead.

He was followed by Father William A. Fleming, pastor of the Church of San Rafael, who has been spiritual adviser to Hickman. The priest, a significant figure in his black cassock, was repeating the "litany of the saints" for those who are about to die.

The litany began as Hickman stepped out of the death cell when Father Fleming commenced speaking the words:

"Lord have mercy; Lord have mercy."

In a weak voice, Hickman responded:

"Christ have mercy."

With rapid steps the group, two guards alongside Hickman and the official executioner, Robert Hoga-

Court Holds Sierra Line Necessity In Orange County

DEFENDANTS TO GET $1000 FOR RIGHT-OF-WAY

In giving judgment to the Southern Sierras Power company, yesterday, in its suit for condemnation of right-of-way property, Superior Judge James L. Allen declared that, in his opinion, the proposed power line through Orange county to Seal Beach is a necessity.

M. B. Wellington, attorney for the concern, closed his final argument to the court yesterday with statements designed to refute the allegations of A. P. Nelson, attorney for the property owners, to the effect that the right-of-way was not needed.

Nelson had asserted that the company could get the desired power by hooking up with the Edison company plant in Los Angeles at a cost of $450,000, instead of linking with the Seal Beach plant of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric company at a cost of $550,000

Wellington told the court that the Edison hookup would necessitate the addition of a $250,000 overhead besides the $450,000 cost of the hookup. Furthermore, he declared, there was no evidence in the case which showed that the Edison concern would furnish the power.

"We know that in 1924, when there was a power shortage that the Edison company was short along with other companies," said Wellington.

Benjamin Benson was awarded $50 damages, H. W. Donaldson was given $400 and Velores Benson was granted $50 damages for the property to be used by the power company right-of-way.

HOME BUYING FUND FOR VETS IS DEPLETED

By ED JOHNSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

(Special to The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 19.—(UP)—War veterans of Orange county who have asked to buy homes or farms under the Veterans' Farm and Home Purchase Act will be "out of luck" unless the next legislature takes steps to bring up reinforcements, it became known today.

The biennial report of the Veterans' Welfare Board, published here, shows that the second block of bonds has been virtually loaned out to the ex-service men and that the board is about ready to disband.

"It is apparent that when the funds now available have been exhausted," the biennial report of the board stated, "there will be 10,000 veterans' applications on file who will be unable to receive any benefits whatever through lack of funds."

The biennial report, as of June 30, 1928, showed $4,000,000 in bonds remained to be sold. The fund has been lent out at a rate of almost a million a month.

Over 5,000 homesand farms already have been purchased for the veterans out of the $30,000,000 appropriated. This money will be returned to the state with interest at five per cent over a period of 20 years.

The board buys the property and re-sells it to the veterans. Disabled men and those with dependents are given first choice while veterans who are well to do or of wealthy families are denied the benefits of the act.

Rich wives have caused the cancelling of about 300 applications while between 1300 and 1400 men were temporarily disqualified because of their achelorhood.

Close appraisal of the property is made by the state board before purchase. In almost every instance the property was purchased at less than the appraisal of a bank official in the county of sale.

Farms were bought by the state at an average fo 21.26 per cent les than the bank appraisal while the average for homes was 9.17 per cent less than the bankers thought they should bring.

The biennial report stated that the American Legion will back an appeal to thenext legislature providing for a $20,000,000 bond issue to continue this work.

HICKMAN PAYS DEATH PENALTY THIS MORNING

boom, in front walked through the two wooden doors leading from the death cell to the execution chamber. All the while Father Fleming continued the litany with Hickman making half audible responses as they neared the 13 steps Father Fleming spoke softly.

"All ye holy virgins and widows; all ye men and women, saints of God, be merciful."

Hickman's lips moved in response with the words:

"Intercede for me, spare me, O Lord. Graciously hear us, Lord."

By now the group were on the platform of the scaffolding.

Father Fleming began to speak softly again as he stood close by Hickman's side:

"We commend Thee, O Lord, the soul of Thy servant, William Edward Hickman and we beseech Thee, O Lord Jesus Christ, savior of the world, that Thou wouldst not refuse to receive into the bosom of Thy patriarchs a soul for whose sake Thou dost mercifully come down upon earth."

It seemed to spectators an eternity in itself before the grim work of placing about Hickman the various paraphernalia for the hanging was completed.

It was, though, only a few seconds. The warden touched Father Fleming on the arm and indicated where he was to stand. This did not interrupt the litany the priest was repeating.

The executioner placed a long cap-like hood over Hickman's head. It fell almost to his shoulders. The hangman then pulled down the 5-8 inch rope which had been placed in a hanging position on the scaffold so it would not be seen by the prisoner as he walked up to the platform.

The executioner then placed the rope about Hickman's neck, the heavy knot directly beneath the youth's right ear.

The purpose of this was to render him unconscious if the fall of some five feet and more did not instantly break his neck.

The executioner and guards Charles Aiston and Fred Hogaboom, worked in absolute harmony, their movements being clocklike in their precision.

One guard adjusted a strap around Hickman's feet. His hands already had been strapped at his sides, giving him a stiffly and gruesomely formal appearance.

The other guard dropped the black cap over Hickman's head and shoulders.

The executioner, having less to do than the others was finished before the two guards. He glanced quickly at them as they looked toward him. An unspoken signal told him the last moment had come.

He raised his right hand. It was the signal for the three men in the little box-like room on one side of the gallows, hardly had he raised his hand when these men must have slashed at the three strings, one of which connected with a heavy iron ball which in turn released the trap through which Hickman's body shot to death.

The moment the trap was sprunk one person fainted, and fell to the floor. Later another man fainted, Detective Dick Lucas of Los Angeles.

The two prison doctors, Dr. Blecker and Robinson, waiting inside the roped square at the foot of the gibbet, stepped forward as Hickman's body dangled momentarily and began to curve the motion of the rope.

Dr. Blecker put out his right hand and stopped the movement of the dead man. He then mounted a small ladder, unbuttoned Hickman's black blouse and placed a stethoscope over his heart.

Standing near Hickman's dangling feet Dr. Robinson reached up and grasped the slayer's left wrist.

Hickman had clutched the hem of his coat with his right hand as he dropped and the fingers of his left hand were clenched tightly.

The knot had been drawn tightly under his right ear and it was seen that his head was tilted slightly to the right.

His body, however, swayed to the left before it was stopped in its movement.

A felt slipper dropped from his right foot to the rough board floor with a sound which even with several hundred men present, was plainly heard while the doctors were at work.

liver tonight at the 131st Regiment armory in the downtown district. But in accordance with his custom recently adopted, he will not divulge the subject he has chosen.

Smith is enthused over the situation he has found here. The Democratic leaders appear to be working in accord in an earnest effort to carry these 29 votes which have always been just as good as Republican as soon as nominating conventions were held in previous years. The guiding hand in his campaign here has been manipulated by a converted Republican friend of the governor, George Gets, in whose trucking concern Smith was for a time employed.

The governor's train will leave here tomorrow noon to return to Albany by way of Indianapolis. He wil lstop at Indianapolis at about 5 p. m. Central time for an hour's parade. While there he will visit the hospital bedside of his friend, the Indiana Democratic leader, Thomas Taggart who has been ill for several months.

Smith received a Chicago labor delegation last night and made a short speech in which he promised to make plain all his views on labor issues in a speech probably at Boston, last in the campaign. He thanked them for their endorsement of his candidacy and pointed out that labor had always supported him in New York state longer than he cared to remember because the remembrance recalled how old he is.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Think of the tremendous obligation you owe to those who have passed this way before! So many diseases have been mastered, so much pain has been eliminated and, best of all, so much superstition and doubt and uncertainty have been conquered.

You know with absolute certainty that your dear one is safe and waiting for you because Christ promised it and others have experienced it.

Pay your debt to the past by handing on to the future an example of a man who lived in the light of his faith.

SUBSCRIPTIONS MUST BE IN BY 9 P. M. SATURDAY

Rushing through the last hours of the thrilling race for supremacy while time is ticking off the precious minutes, candidates in The Register's $17,000 automobile and prize campaign will wind up one of the greatest newspaper campaigns in Santa Ana history at 9 p. m., tomorrow.

Into almost every home has spread the news that the golden horn of plenty is about to be tipped, shedding its riches among the men and women who for weeks have worked to be among the fortunate winners.

Topping the prize list are 10 new motor cars; a $2662 Packard coupe, $2320 Marmon sedan, $2178 Studebaker sedan, $1960 Reo brougham, $1665 Hupmobile sedan, $1485 Nash sedan, two $955 Essex sedans, $674 Whippet coach and a $673 Durant-Star sedan. No wonder the hurry and scramble of the closing days are precipitating a veritable storm of votes!

Work Without Rest

Work without rest is the portion candidates have determined upon these last days, for extreme uncertainty of just how many votes competitors may have makes it urgent that everything possible be done to make certain of victory. Predictions, of course, are being made, but the ultimate outcome is something no one can forcast.

Many things may happen between now and the end. The old saying, "There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip," has an application in this campaign. Safety lies only in votes—and the final vote schedule now in effect permits any candidate to still get votes by the thousands.

Auditors Selected

With the selection of R. D. Crenshaw and company, certified public accountants, with offices in The First National Bank building, to take charge of the final vote count, candidates are assured of a speedy, accurate count. The result will be made known in The Register as early as possible.

Candidates are reminded that the doors of The Register office will be locked at 9 o'clock tomorrow night and no one will be allowed to enter after that hour to turn in subscriptions. All those inside, however, will be waited upon. All subscriptions mailed must reach the campaign offices by 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

Spence Defendant In Action Seeking Prohibition Writ

The Fullerton justice court and Justice Halsey I. Spence, of that city, were made defendants today in a petition for a writ of prohibition to prevent the tribunal there from proceeding further in a suit brought by the F. R. Carroll company against B. L. Schuttere, of Ontario.

The concern is seeking to get judgment against Schuttere for $199.05, the alleged balance due on the purchase price of an automobile.

In his petition for a prohibition writ, Schuttere alleged that the Fullerton court has no jurisdiction in the case, on the ground that the summons was served on him outside Orange county. He further argued that jurisdiction does not exist because, he claimed, the causes of action on which the Carroll company case was brought were not based on a written contract.

Schuttere made a motion in the Fullerton court to quash the summons, which was denied.

TWO FINED FOR NOT OBSERVING STREET STOP

Aside from being arrested on a reckless driving charge, on which he appeared in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning and was fined $30, Y. W. Chun, Japanese, of Delhi, had the misfortune of having two automobiles "back" into him at the time he was arrested, he told the court.

Ernie Sawyer, state traffic officer, who arrested Chun, reported that he failed to make a boulevard stop at Tustin avenue and First street, Tustin, several days ago, his machine striking two other cars as he drove into the intersection.

Chun didn't see it that way. He slowed down at the intersection, he said, and then the two machines on First street backed into him, he said.

It was necessary for the court to use an interpreter in thecase, another Japanese, who was appearing for a boulevard stop violation, and it was not untilafter the case had been concluded that Morrison learned that the interpreter was in court for failure to stop at the same intersection. He was Torea Yoshmura, who was fined $5.

'MR. PIM PASSES BY' BEFORE RESPONSIVE AUDIENCE IN HIS OPENING NIGHT PRESENTATION

By ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

They have done it again!

At the very beginning of the season, Santa Ana Community Players have started off with a play that achieved success with a critical first-night audience. For "Mr. Pim Passes By," having its premiere here last night in the Yost Spurgeon street theater, was enjoyed to the utmost by an audience which immediately recognized the intangible charm which is the play's outstanding quality. Every amusing line seemed to "get across."

"Mr. Pim Passes By" is a play of atmosphere and subtle meanings rather than of dashing brilliancy and, as such, its star role could have been in no better hands than those of Glodys Simpson Shafer, whose unfailing dramatic ability and sense of values made it possible to present all the feminine workings of "Olivia's" very keen and humorous mind, until the audience could follow every little inner reasoning as she brought her delightfully stolid British husband, "George," to terms.

Lyle Michell, as "George Marden," a newcomer to the Players' stage, made his greatest appeal when he wakened to a realization of the necessity of winning "Olivia" all over again and changed the habits of a life-time to meet her approval.

Brackett's Work Good

It has ben advanced by many admirers of Harry Brackett's character work that in the title role of "Mr. Pim" he did quite the nicest bit of character study he ever has accomplished. The absent minded little old gentleman was a very real personage to his audience as he unwittingly disturbed the atmosphere of a peaceful, English home.

The two juvenile leads were entrusted to Lois Sweet Le Bard and Valmer Clark and were most refreshing examples of "juvenilia." As "Dinah," Mrs. Le Bard was a veritable mad-cap of a maid while Val Clark's "Brian Strange" was audacious, dreamy, bombastic, sensible, foolish and trustworthy, all in turn. In fact, both were essentially "young."

"Aunt Julia," or as she probably would insist upon being called, "Lady Marden," a horse-loving British spinster, proud of her family and place in county life, was given with the necessary arrogance and haughtiness and general withering-with-a-look, by Julia Hyde. "It seems to me I should insist upon seeing my husbands die!" declared Aunt Julia with a glare for poor little Olivia, as though the latter were wholly to blame for any tangled domestic affairs precipitated whenever "Mr. Pim Passes By."

Miss Harriet Brackett, as the little housemaid, "Ann," had the happy experience of making her stage debut under the wing of her father, so to speak, and much of her small but satisfactory part was directly with her father.

Audience Responsive

Responsiveness of last night's play-goers was especially noted in the end of the second act—the climax of the plot. In this Mrs. Shafer did some particularly fine work, which was followed in breathless silence by a tense audience.

Musical features were presented by Cesare Cianfoni, Hugh Runnells and Miss Ruth Armstrong, accompanist. Miss Armstrong always has come to the fore in aiding the Players and is considered a component part of the organization. Cianfoni's magic trombone added to the entertainment and Hugh Runnells completed the pleasure with his baritone solos, "Duna" and "The Desert Song." He has a natural baritone of crystal clarity and unusual precision of tone and interesting things are predicted for his future. Alan Revill and Elwood Bear have assumed responsibility for musical features for succeeding performances.

Many friendly words of approval have been offered Miss Edith Cornell for her success in a first attempt at drama direction on such a large scale as the Milne play and it is considered fortunate that the public is given opportunity by its triple presentations to adapt engagements that some one of the performances may be attended.

SOCIETY FINDS HOMES FOR 268 TOTS IN YEAR

With a record of 268 children sheltered during the last year, with 383 new cases handled and with many homes investigated as possible locations for homeless children and a large number of little ones happily placed, the California Children's Home society has presented striking facts in its report submitted to the Santa Ana Community Chest in preparation for the appeal to be made by the chest in November.

This society, with headquarters in Los Angeles, is one of the two agencies licensed by the state of California for the placement of children in homes for adoption and its work reflects the great and growing need for such careful handling of the cases of babies and small children who, through various circumsetances, are left homeless and dependent on others than their own families for aid.

The society has been outgrowing its quarters in Los Angeles. Two new buildings recently were constructed and now are in use. One of these is a nursery building, well equipped, with a graduate nurse in charge and with beds for 22 babies. There also is a new cottage for boys, while in prospect are a girls' building, isolation quarters and a dining room.

A small cottage across the street from the home has been opened for the temporary care of unmarried mothers and babies, who constitutes a large part of the society's problems.

In June of this year, the society had 212 children, in homes where they had been adopted, under supervision. The investigation of proposed foster homes requires a great deal of careful work and consumes much time, as it is the policy of the society to place children only in homes which have been fully approved.

The generous hearted people of Santa Ana undoubtedly will be glad to have this worthy work of benevolence for little children included among the agencies which receive aid through the community chest.

Mac O. Robbins is the local member of the board of directors of this society, which maintains its work throughout the state, both north and south, Robbins revealed that many children had been placed in Orange county homes.

Two Not Guilty Pleas Entered By Charles Collins

Two not guilty pleas were entered today by Charles Collins, of Orange, when he appeared for arraignment on charges of grand theft and rape in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court.

Deputy District Attorney Sam L. Collins appeared for the people and Collins had an attorney to represent him on each charge. A. E. Koepsel, Orange, will appear in the grand theft case, while O. A. Jacobs, Santa Ana, will handle the defense in the other hearing.

Two trial dates were scheduled for Collins. The grand theft hearing will be November 15 and the rape hearing will be on October 30, at 9:30 a.m. Collins is alleged to have stolen an automobile.

MEAT MARKET, STORE TO OPEN ON SOUTH MAIN

R. R. Miller, formerly of Nevada and Colorado, an experienced market man, has leased the new business block at 408 South Main street and will open a modern meat market and grocery store there next Saturday, it was announced today.

According to Miller, he has travelled all over the country and was located in Los Angeles for awhile, but has found Santa Ana the ideal city in which to do business.

"The market I will open on Saturday will be different from others now in operation. The service will be different. It will be a place where you can go and get your goods delivered to you," Miller said.

"There is plenty of parking space at any time of the day because we are located out of the high rent district. We are situated so we can give you the best quality at lower prices. The grocery department has a complete stock of products at all times."

City Employe Is Injured In Crash

B. L. Woods, 933 West Highland street, city employe, was slightly injured yesterday when the automobile which he was driving collided with a car driven by Frank O'Dell, 912 South Parton stret, at First and Parton streets, according to a report made to city police. He was given first aid treatment in a physician's office and removed to his home.

GONZALES GARCIA PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Gonzales Garcia today entered a plea of not guilty when he was arraigned in Superior Judge James Allen's court on a charge of rape.

The charge against the man was made after his alleged relations with Mercedes Sanchez, 13, of Los Alamitos, had been brought into the light in the case of her father, Remedios Sanchez, who was convicted of manslaughter. Sanchez is asserted to have killed Lorenzo Costo, his foreman.

The court set 9:30 a. m., November 28, for Garcia's trial. Deputy District Attorney Sam Collins appeared for the people today. Garcia was represented by Roland Thompson, Santa Ana attorney.

PUBLISHERS ASK 25 WAVE LENGTHS

Applications for 25 short waves for point to point service within the United States, which were filed with the federal radio commission last spring, were supported by argument recently by Joseph Pierson, of Chicago, chairman of the American Publishers' committee.

"These waves, as the commission may be aware," said Mr. Pierson, "because of the vast organization and high standards maintained by the American press operating in its domestic field are of much more importance to the press than frequencies in any other part of the spectrum.

"The waves under consideration, because of their technical characteristics open to the press a special field towards which the press long has been pushing. I mean the introduction of complete news reports to many newspapers of the country, who are unable to carry the economic load laid on bulk press traffic today by the wireless companies."

Beverly Woods Sole Owner Of Saddlerock Cafe

According to information released today, the partnership heretofore existing between Beverly Woods and Pio Menagazzo, owners of the Saddlerock cafe, on West Fourth street, has been dissolved and at the completion of the deal, Beverly Woods became sole owners and manager.

Woods is a member of the Disabled War Veterans and also a member of the American Legion.

INSANITY PLEA OF ALLEGED BIGAMIST

Clarence P. Rand, who was brought back to Santa Ana from Texas to answer to a bigamy charge, pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity when he was arraigned today before Superior Judge James L. Allen. Rand is alleged to have confessed that he married four women.

Chief Deputy District Attorney L. W. Blodget and Deputy District Attorney Sam L. Collins appeared for the people and Rand was represented by F. H. Lyon, Fullerton attorney.

The court set Rand's trial for 9:30 a.m. November 23. He possibly will have two hearings, one to establish his mental condition. If he is proved sane, he will be tried on the charge of bigamy.

BYRD'S EXPEDITION IS WELL EQUIPPED

The Byrd Antarctic expedition is equipped with three transmitting and receiving sets to be employed on ships and at the base station. Three transmitters of the 500-watt intermediate-frequency type have been supplied by the Radio-marine Corporation. One is aboard the S. S. City of New York, and another aboard the S. S. Chelsea. The third is intended for use at the base station of the expedition, which will be established on the ice. Three short-wave receivers also have been supplied, to accompany the trsnmitters. These will maintain communication at least with stations in South America, New Zealand and Australia. It is also expected that communication will be maintained between the base station and the planes of the expedition.

Commander Byrd has laid out an elaborate system of contact between the various parties of his expedition. He has selected five experienced radio men to accompany him and be responsible for the operation of the radio equipment.

TELEVISION WORK GIVEN APPROVAL

The federal radio commission has approved of several applications to operate or to construct stations for experimental work and the actual transmission of television signals. These stations have been assigned 100 kilocycle bands between about 47 and 125 meters. The authorizations were granted the following:

8XI. Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., East Pittsburgh, Pa., 63.33 to 62.5 meters and 19.86 to 19.73 meters. 20,000 watts. This wavelength will be shared with 2XBW of the Radio Corporation of America.

6XC. Robert B. Parris, Los Angeles, Calif. 4500 to 4600 kilocycles, (66.7—65.2 meters). 15 kilowatts.

2XBU. Harold E. Smith, Beacon, N. Y., 4800 to 4900 kilocycles, (62.5—61.22 meters). 100 watts.

1XAY. J. Smith Dodge, Lexington, Mass., 4800 to 4900 kilocycles, (62.5—61.22 meters). 500 watts.

3XK. J. Francis Jenkins, Washington, D. C., 4900 to 5000 kilocycles, (61.22—60 meters). Also 6420 kilocycles (46.72 meters).—5 kilowatts.

4XA. Station WREC, Inc., White Haven, Tenn. 2400 to 2300 kilocycles (125 to 130 meters). 5 kilowatts.

ADVANCE IS MADE IN AERIAL RADIO

A great forward step in aerial radio development has just been made by the navy department, it was revealed yesterday at the Los Angeles base, with the completion of successful tests, at a 600-mile range, of radio equipment with an engine-driven generator.

Heretofore, aviation radio sets have obtained power derived from generators driven by air propellers, thus rendering the set impotent when the plane was not in flight. Therefore, planes forced to land or otherwise in distress were unable to radio for help. The engine-driven generator, however, permits full use of radio facilities regardless of whether the plane is in flight.

The new generator and sending set were tested out on a trimotor Ford transport plane, full two-way communication being carried on at ranges in excess of 600 miles. Plans already are under way in the navy department whereby the new generator will be used by all observation, scouting and patrol planes in the fleet.

140 YEARS OF THE PRESIDENTIAL PARADE!

EDITOR'S NOTE: How Garfield, the dark horse, beat Grant's third term aspirations and was elected over General Hancock is told in this chapter of "The Presidential Parade," Rodney Dutcher's series on presidential politics of other days.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

(Copyright, 1928, by NEA Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—In one of the greatest political conventions in history, the Old Guard choked on the third term issue, but never surrendered.

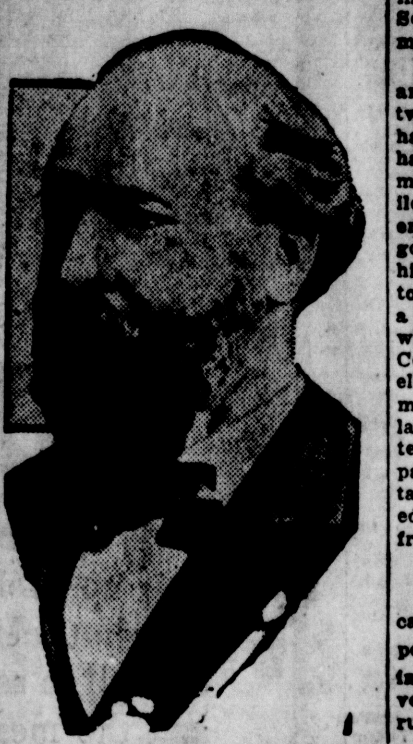
In that year ex-President Ulysses S. Grant made his second bid for 12 years in the White House and was only beaten by a dark horse after leading the republican convention balloting for 35 ballots.

The party spoilsmen had had lean pickings under President Hayes and longed for a return to the good old days when men might become wealthy and powerful through executive favor. The Grant movement was led by Senator Roscoe Conkling, patronage overlord of New York.

Hayes Saves Party

Hayes' regeneration of the government was all that saved the party from defeat in the 1880 election. He had cleaned and scrubbed it, actually trying to get the government service out of politics, and had restored public confidence in republicanism. He had released South Carolina and Louisiana from military and carpet-bag control.

JAMES A. GARFIELD



The contest was between Grant and Blaine. Actually it was between Blaine and Conkling, who had hated Blaine with undying hate since Blaine, as a congressman, had referred to "his grandiloquent swell, his majestic, supereminent, over-powering, turkey-gobbler strut" and then compared him with another man as "mud to marble, dunghill to a diamond, a singed cat to a Bengal tiger, a whining puppy to a roaring lion." Conkling hoped to nominate and elect Grant and then have Grant make him president four years later. With the south now admittedly democratic he held that the party must name a strong military hero who could first be elected and then restore the Negro franchise for the party's benefit.

Eliminate Unit Rule

When the convention met at Chicago the New York-Pennsylvania politicians who had defeated Blaine in 1876, believed they had the convention rigged to impose the unit rule. This would have given Grant enough additional strength to insure his nomination. But a majority of the national committee turned out to be anti-Grant and the unit rule was eliminated. Other plans of the high-handed steam roller—some rather dishonorable—were also blocked.

Conkling made a splendid emotional speech placing Grant in nomination although it was vindictive against Blaine as to solidify all Blaine delegates against Grant for good.

Conkling had undertaken to dominate the convention by browbeating all who opposed him. He was so insolent and dictatorial that everyone but the Grant men began to hate him.

The anti-Grant forces were led by General James A. Garfield, there in the interests of Senator John Sherman of Ohio. Contrasted with Conkling, he was fair, kind and affable. Everyone began to like him. It was he who followed Conkling with a plea for Sherman. Quietly and calmly, he appealed to the delegates for peace and order.

"Not here, in this brilliant circle," he said, "but by four million republican firesides . . . there God prepares the verdict which will determine the wisdom of our work tonight."

At one point he paused and asked: "Now, gentlemen, what do we want?"

"We want Garfield!" yelled a delegate and afterward many charged that Garfield, double-crossing Sherman, had plotted this incident. Historians and biographers differ on that.

The convention adjourned over Sunday, a day of hauling, pulling, bulldozing and intrigue.

Sudden Turn to Garfield

On Monday the first ballot gave Grant 304, Blaine 284 and Sherman 93, with four favorite sons holding out and 378 necessary to nominate. There were 28 ballots the first day, Grant leading. Men who would take neither held the balance of power.

When 34 votes were suddenly cast for Garfield on the 34th he arose to protest, but Chairman George F. Hoar cut him off as out of order. Fifty Blaine delegates went to him on the 35th and he is said to have collapsed with surprise as he won with 399 on the 36th. The Grant-Conkling forces were allowed to name for vice president Chester A. Arthur, an unpopular politician who had been fired by Hayes as collector of the port of New York.

Democrats had intended to renominate Tilden. Persuaded that he could not be elected with Tammany determined to keep New York from him at all costs, he withdrew. But when two New York delegates fought for convention seats, the Tammany group was thrown out on the ground that it had knifed Tilden in '76 and had promised to do so again. Then General Winfield S. Hancock was nominated on the second ballot with a platform calling on the country to avenge the "crime of '76."

For the first time since the war, no one "waved the bloody shirt" in that campaign and the two military heroes, now gallant, courageously and generally admired politicians, called each other no names.

Savage Assaults

But Hancock's supporters made savage assaults on Garfield's character, accusing him of immorality, corruption and whatnot. Their campaign slogan became the figure "329," since Garfield had made $329 profit on Credit Mobilier stock and they painted, chalked and printed the number on sidewalks, doors, walls and in newspapers. The celebrated Morey letter, a forgery in which Garfield was supposed to have advocated importation of Chinese labor, was distributed in bales on the Pacific coast at the last moment, losing him to California and one or two other states.

The Grant-Conkling faction was conciliated late in the campaign when Garfield promised it its share of patronage.

Prosperity had overtaken the country since 1876 and the people refused to get excited about the "crime." The democratic campaign was poorly organized and poorly financed and Garfield won by a bare 10,000 vote pulrality among 9,000,000 cast. The count, popular and electoral:

	Popular	Electoral
Garfield	4,454,000	214
Hancock	4,444,000	155
Weaver (Populist)	308,000

TOMORROW: Grover Cleveland finally wins for the democrats.

INVITE PUPILS TO HEAR RADIO MUSIC COURSE

So that school children of Santa Ana whose homes are not equipped with radios may have opportunity to take advantage of the music appreciation course being presented weekly over the National Broadcasting company's chain by the Standard Oil company, the Preston Radio company, of Santa Ana, announced today that its store, at 211 East Fourth street, would be open each Thursday night for accommodation of the pupils.

W. M. Clark, of the Preston company, announced today that he would announce the accommodation in all schools of the city during the coming week and invite all who desire to attend the radio concert in the store.

The course, to be known as the Standard symphony hour, started last night and will be held each Thursday night, between 7:30 and 8:30, for several months. The new educational plan, according to Clark, will comprise a program designed to meet a growing need of cultural education in the schools.

SMITH, ROBINSON ON RADIO TONIGHT

More politics!

Republicans, if you want a few more reasons why you should vote for Hoover and Curtis, tune in on KPLA, Los Angeles, at 5:30, coast time, this afternoon, and hear Senator Charles Curtis, speaking from New Jersey.

Democrats, if you want a few more reasons why you should vote for Smith and Robinson, tune in on KFI, Los Angeles, at 6 o'clock, coast time, this evening, and hear Gov. Alfred E. Smith, speaking from Chicago.

And, of course, there will be those of you who will want to tune in on both speeches, which will be possible because of the difference in time of the addresses.

KPLA to Put Two Important Gridiron Struggles On Air Tomorrow

Don't forget, you football fans who will be forced to stay at home tomorrow afternoon, that two of the biggest games of the season will be put on the air—just draw up your chair and tune in.

KPLA, in Los Angeles, will broadcast both games, the Harvard test of strength, at Cambridge, and the U. S. C.-California tussle, at Berkeley. The Army contest will go on the air at about 11:30 a. m., Pacific coast time, and the U. S. C.-California struggle will start at about 2:30 p. m.

Of course, if you have just recently arrived in this land of sunshine and flowers and miss freezing temperatures with your football, you probably will be disappointed anyway. But you might overcome even that obstacle. You might, you know, don your coonskin coat (if you're collegiate, put on your woolen socks and galoshes, buy you about 50 pounds of ice and "iceolate" yourself with your radio.

You can have your college banners waving in a stiff breeze from a couple of electric fans, seat yourself on a hard bench, put your feet on the ice (brr-r-r), turn on the radio, and just imagine—

40%... 50%... 60% GASOLINE in your oil!

Not when you buy the oil—there's no gasoline in it then. But if you use "wet" gasoline it soon dilutes your lubricant.

"Wet" gasoline doesn't vaporize completely—it can't burn cleanly—and much of it runs down the cylinder walls into the crankcase. Naturally your oil is soon ruined—its "body" is gone—it is too thin to lubricate your motor properly. Besides, you've wasted fuel—cheated yourself of the extra miles your gasoline should have given you.

Would you avoid this condition? It is easily done. Simply be careful to buy "dry" gas. There is a "dry" gas now—Shell 400.

Careful refining eliminates heavy "wet" fractions, and all of your Shell 400 goes into power, into mileage—the things you buy gasoline for.

Yellow and red Shell pumps are everywhere convenient. Make them your stop signals whenever your tank needs filling.

A thousand miles of ordinary driving with "wet" gasoline and your oil is likely diluted more than half—thinned beyond use as a lubricant. Note this example of old crankcase oil—34% gasoline!

A thousand miles with "dry" gas and there is very little crankcase dilution—here are the results of a typical test: Gasoline 9.2%, lubricant 90.8%—a decided fuel and oil saving over "wet" gas

SHELL 400 The "DRY" GAS

And about oil: There's an oil now that forms no hard, flaky carbon. If you would avoid the endless troubles caused by carbon, and "add thousands of miles to the life of your car," insist on SHELL MOTOR OIL whenever you buy

HOLLYWOOD FILM DIRECTORS FROWN ON TALKIES BUT THEY ALL WANT TO PRODUCE ONE

By DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Oct. 18.—More than half of the cinema directors in Hollywood are strongly opposed to these new-fangled movies with loud speaker attachments. But every single one of them wants to make one just the same.

Josef von Sternberg summed up the opinions of the majority of directors when he said:

"I am strongly opposed to talking pictures. I believe that dialogue detracts from the entertainment value of a film. Furthermore the production methods necessitated by the synchronisation of sound place too many limitations upon a director. However, I would like to make one just the same. Who wouldn't with the way they are cleaning up at the box office?"

Fitzmaurice Strong for Them

George Fitzmaurice, who has directed many honestly good pictures, has exactly opposing views.

"I welcome the advent of dialogue and sound in pictures," says this director. "They will enable me to do much that has been impossible to do before in silent drama. The limits that bound us before are now removed. Now almost any kind of story may be told cinematically, any stage drama produced far more effectively than on the stage itself. The advantages of the motion picture and the stage as separate media are combined in this new art."

"For a little while audiences are going to be very enthusiastic and easily pleased because of the novel fact that sound comes out of a picture," declares Cecil B. DeMille. "But after that rather short period has passed, the sound picture will no longer be novel and audiences will insist that they really be entertained. Otherwise they will forsake the talkies as readily as they flocked to see it.

"It is my feeling that people on the whole prefer to see and hear living persons speak. Their admiration for pictures is based primarily on the pantomine art.

"However, sound is a tremendous thing. Frankly speaking, none of us has yet learned how to use it. When we do, we have a different outlook upon it."

One of the principal reasons that directors are opposed to the advent of talking films is because it eliminates unique camera shots which have done so much to improve pictures during recent years. When sound is being synchronized with a picture, the camera must be housed in a sound-proof compartment so that the clicking sound they make will not be recorded along with the desired words and sound effects. Consequently directors must go back to the old style of shooting—long shot, medium shot and close-up.

King Vidor's View

"It is unfortunate that the voice should be injected into photoplays just at a time when they are finally beginning to get somewhere and just when the public is beginning to accept and understand them," says King Vidor, who will always be remembered for giving us "The Big Parade."

"Sound [illegible] accompaniment for pictures—great! I can see the splendid effects we'll get with sudden and unexpected noises. But to have the characters on the screen use dialogue—not so good. In fact, I should say very bad.

"Pictures have developed many ways of expressing thought by movement. The most charming feature about them has been their silence, the opportunity they afford to the spectator to see his drama by pantomime and to write in is own words as far as possible."

When I talked to William Wellman, director of "Wings," he answered my question in this manner:

"Our Swedish maid told me that she didn't like talking films and that she wouldn't ever go to another one. When I asked her why, she replied that she wouldn't go to a theater and hear the ghosts on the screen talk. She was scared to death of them and I believe there are a lot more like her."

"I am not in favor of dialogue being added to the silent drama," says Victor Fleming. "The average man who takes his family to a movie is tired from a day's work and wants to sleep. How can he do that with a loud speaker going full blast all of the time?

"Also, the average motion picture audience likes to relax and enjoy the film. It can't do that if it has to be alert to catch every word spoken by the characters."

DIRECTORS

POLICE FORCE OF JUVENILES IN SEAL BEACH

SEAL BEACH, Oct. 19.—A. G. Johnson, chief of police, presented to the city council last night a plan for the organization of a juvenile police force in Seal Beach to work in conjunction with the present force. Chief Johnson believes it would be an incentive to the boys to obey the law and to control any tendency to disobedience in others.

He plans to have the boys report to him once a week and discuss any problems that may have arisen. The idea was sanctioned by the board and it was agreed that in case it worked out well the council might see fit later to provide buttons or badges to distinguish these juvenile officers.

A report was made by John Rees, street and water superintendent, that in case the removal of the bridge over Alamitos bay should be effected, the city of Long Beach would extend the water pipe line in Naples to the city limits of Seal Beach, providing a 12-inch line and being responsible for its upkeep. The city of Seal Beach could connect with this an 8-inch pipe over an approximate distance of 150 feet. to connect with the present system on First street. The present pipe across Alamitos bay is 5 1-2 inch. Such a connection would provide a more adequate supply even under present conditions and until such time as the bridge might be removed the city would have a double emergency line. The matter was taken under advisement.

Rees also reported that the water pipe in the alley between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets on Electric avenue was in need of replacing as it had been mended so much that it was a series of clamps instead of a pipe line. He was authorized to supply the stock with needed material for replacing.

Mrs. R. Muse found she had more land than she wanted when she contemplated building on her lot in East Seal Beach. Always generous, she had allowed the city of Seal Beach to use her vacant lot as a dumping place for the excess sand that is continually having to be removed from the highway.

A shifting sand dune, however, is an unstable foundation for a house and a request was filed by Mrs. Muse at the meeting of the city council that the city remove the sand.

Fortunately, the newly annexed district to the east is in need of sand for a fill just across the highway from the lot in question and Street Superintendent was authorized to transfer the surplus soil.

CLUB HEARS OF L. A. MIDNIGHT MISSION WORK

ORANGE, Oct. 19.—The service that the Midnight mission in Los Angeles renders mankind was brought out in a talk before the Rotary club at the regular meeting yesterday. The talk was given by Tom Liddecoat, founder of the mission.

The mission is undenominational, the speaker explained, has nothing for sale, asks no questions, takes no collections and pays no salaries.

"In the past 10 years," Liddecoat stated, "35,000 men and women have been sent to their homes. During the year ending January 1, 1928, 161,250 lodgings and 481,776 meals were given down and outers, 17,412 shaves and 17,336 baths were enjoyed by these people, 2157 pairs of shoes were repaired, employment was given to 11,708, medical aid administered to 2157 and 14,240 professed salvation."

The Midnight mission, it is said, is the largest mission in the world. He told of two boys who were fed and clothed and it was afterward found were the sons of a millionaire living in the east. The boys had left home and were ashamed to write home that they were uanble to make their own living. Their parents were notified and the lads sent home. A donation from the parents later aided numbers of others toward happier lives, the speaker declared.

Big Change

In Face Powder

A good face powder today must do more than merely remove shine—it should stay on longer, prevent the pores from getting larger, spread smoothly, and leave a peachy look on the complexion. A new French Process Powder called MELLO-GLO does these things. MELLO-GLO is truly wonderful. You will simply love it. Santa Ana Drug Co.—Adv.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write your name and address in the special coupon you see at the end of this announcement, and send for a bottle to try. This complimentary bottle is forwarded, prepaid without charge of any kind.

If Tires Could

"SCREECH" like brakes

TEARING up to a corner and stopping "on a dime" is thrilling. But what a yell you'd hear from your tires—if they could protest.

"Hey, what's the big idea? Grindin' the hides off our bodies like that! Your brakes don't stop the car—they only stop us. Our treads have to slide and grip the road for you. Have a heart!"

Stepping a car up to express train speed in a few seconds and holding it there makes telephone poles flit past like fence posts,—but

"Say, boss," your tires would warn, "those quick starts do three things: (1) show you've got a great car, (2) spin us and (3) sandpaper our hides. Don't think you're 'burning up the roads' either. You're burning us up with that high speed. Those bouncing axles, too, swerve us from side to side, toss us up and bang us down. Don't expect us to take you over the miles that we can go for more considerate drivers."

What Tests Show

A truck, operated at 35 miles per hour and quickly stopped every quarter mile, wore off as much tread rubber in 100 miles as would ordinarily disappear in several thousand miles.

Test cars run at 35 miles per hour secured practically double the tire mileage that was obtained when the same cars were driven steadily at 45 miles per hour.

Tires are better today than they have ever been.

If, however, you enjoy fast starts and stops and high speed, you must expect more wear and tear on your tires, the same as you do on your car.

Tell us frankly how you prefer to drive; we will recommend the proper type of Goodyear tires to meet your requirements most satisfactorily.

DON'T BE LATE!

All candidates are reminded that the doors of The Register office will be locked at 9 o'clock Saturday night, and no one will be allowed to enter after that hour to turn in subscriptions. All those inside, however, will be waited upon.

Subscriptions that are mailed must reach the campaign offices by the closing hour.

BALLOT BOX LOCKED AND SEALED
R. D. Crenshaw and Company, Certified Public Accountants, to Audit Returns

During this last week of the campaign, a locked and sealed box will be used in which candidates may deposit their subscriptions and remittances to cover same. This box has been sealed by R. D. CRENSHAW & COMPANY, Certified Public Accountants, with offices in The First National Bank Building, who will have charge of auditing vote returns of the candidates. The sealed box will not be opened until after the close of the campaign by the auditors, who will then check the votes secured by the candidates throughout the entire campaign.

By using the sealed ballot box, no one will know what each candidate is turning in, not even the campaign manager. This assures absolute fairness to all.

FINAL VOTE SCHEDULE

Showing the tremendous vote value of NEW subscriptions during the last week of the campaign (October 15 to 20, 9 p.m.) This schedule is positively final and will not be changed. It is the only schedule that counts now, and supersedes all previous schedules, except that votes on old subscriptions are the same as they have been throughout the campaign. Votes on NEW subscriptions as shown below, are figured as equivalent to 70,000 extra votes on a $20 combination, thus complying with the original announcement.

Vote Value of Subscription Payments

24 Months	20.00	160,000	45,000
36 Months	30.00	245,000	70,000

HOW TO FIGURE SECOND PAYMENTS

Second payments turned in the last week of the campaign are figured according to the above schedule. For example: If the first payment was a NEW subscription for $1.95 for 3 months and the second payment is $1.80 to make total of $3.75 for six months, the second payment votes would be 16,300. If the first payment was $3.75 new and the second payment is $3.25, the second payment votes would be 36,375. Other second payments are figured in the same way.

NOTE—It is absolutely necessary to write "Second Payment" on the remittance sheet when turning in second payments; also give amount of first payment, otherwise second payment votes will not be allowed.

LIST OF CANDIDATES

The list of candidates with votes published will not be changed until after the close of the campaign. When the winners are announced total of each candidate's vote will be published.

Use Final Vote Schedule

Use the final vote schedule above, this week. It is the only schedule that counts now. Be sure to enter the proper number of votes on your remittance sheet.

Be careful to enter your subscriptions properly "New" or "Old." Turning in Old subscriptions as New may cause regret later, as subscriptions are verified and candidates turning in old subscriptions as new will lose votes by doing so.

Be sure to mark Second Payments as such on the remittance sheet in the second payment column and give amount turned in on first payment. Otherwise Second Payment vote will not be allowed. If you are NOT CERTAIN of the number of votes to be given on Second Payments, do not enter the votes on the remittance sheet—the proper credit will be given by the campaign department. Acknowledgment will be made of all remittances turned in each week, as usual, giving amount of each remittance and votes credited on ballots, after the ballot box has been opened by the auditors.

SAINTS MEET WHITTIER HERE TOMORROW

S. A. BOY IS TROJANS' HOPE

Santa Ana, most fertile of all football fields, has produced the most celebrated of a long line of greats in Don Williams, the "Grecky" of local high school elevens of 1921 and 1923. Here is a new picture of the famous University of Southern California quarterback on whose shoulders rest virtually the entire hope of the Trojans for a victory over the University of California in tomorrow's classic at Berkeley.

FOUR BIG GRID TILTS ON EAST CARD SATURDAY

By LES CONKLIN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Army, Penn, Dartmouth and Yale are favored to win the four big games which head the East's football program tomorrow. The Cadets are resuming gridiron relations with Harvard at Cambridge, Penn takes on Penn State at Philadelphia, Dartmouth entertains Columbia and Brown invades the lair of the Bulldog at New Haven.

Penn and Dartmouth are meeting their first tough opponents. And Harvard and Brown will be the first major eastern teams to meet Army and Yale.

Three of the four games might be termed "grudge" contests. Army has never beaten Harvard in 13 starts, Columbia has failed to defeat Dartmouth in the modern era, and Penn is seeking revenge for its beating by Penn State last season.

Syracuse, another strong eastern team, is tackling Nebraska on the Cornhuskers' gridiron determined to wipe out its last year's defeat. The unscored-upon Lafayette juggernaut faces a possible tartar in Bucknell, conqueror of Penn State, and Washington and Jefferson will be no set-up for Carnegie Tech despite the fact that the Presidents were beaten by little Duquesne.

Princeton and Navy are facing a showdown. The Tigers, held to a tie by Virginia, need an impressive victory over Lehigh to restore their morale. And Navy must put the crusher on Duke or be regarded as the joke team of the season.

Harris Will Be Manager At Detroit

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 19.—Stanley ("Bucky") Harris has been appointed manager of the Detroit Tigers for the season of 1929, President Frank Navin of the Detroit baseball club, announced today.

Harris succeeds George Moriarty, who resigned this week after trying for two years to place the Tigers at the top of the American league.

BOTTOMLEY IS LIKELY TO GET PLAYER AWARD

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Selection of the National league's most valuable player will not be made until the first week in December, but Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals, Freddy Lindstrom of the New York Giants and Burleigh Grimes of the Pittsburgh Pirates have been installed as the outstanding candidates for the honor.

Despite Bottomley's disappointing work in the world series, he appears to have the inside track for the 1928 award. The smiling first baseman of the National league champions played a major role in the Cardinal's pennant drive. He batted .325 and drove in 133 runs, leading the league in the latter respect.

New York sport writers highly favor Lindstrom for the award because of the Swede's plucky play during the closing weeks of the season when the Giants were fighting grimly to overtake the Cardinals. Lindstrom not only fielded sensationally, but he batted .358, finishing in fourth place.

Until Grimes collapsed under the strain toward the end of the season, the veteran spitball pitcher loomed as the outstanding candidate. Grimes won 25 games and lost 14 for a fourth place team and largely was responsible for raising the Pirates out of the second division.

Paul Waner, Pittsburgh right fielder, won the award last year, polling 72 points out of a possible 80.

Unlike the American league, the National league committee can pick the same player indefinitely if it wishes. Therefore, Paul Waner and the previous winners of the award are eligible this year. The committee is composed of one newspaperman from each National league city.

Some of the other players who have been mentioned prominently for the award are Francis Hogan, New York catcher; "Pie" Traynor, Pittsburgh third baseman; Larry Benton, New York pitcher; Guy Bush, Chicago pitcher; Hughie Critz, Cincinnati second baseman; "Dazzy" Vance, Brooklyn pitcher; Willie Sherdel, St. Louis pitcher and Andy Reese, New York utility infielder and outfielder.

Trojan, Bear Gridders In Seclusion

CRACK COLLEGE VARSITIES BATTLE IN PACIFIC COAST GRID CLASSIC TOMORROW

BERKELEY, Oct. 19.—The crack varsity football teams of the University of California and the University of Southern California were in seclusion tonight, preparing to rest for their vastly important conference game in Memorial stadium here tomorrow afternoon. The Trojans are a 10 to 8 favorite in the wagering but there is said to be considerable money available on the Bears at these odds.

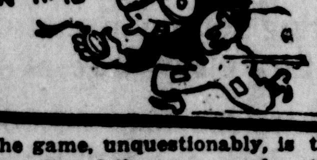
Forty-nine members of the Southern California team arrived at Mt. Diablo Country club today. After another secret workout yesterday, in which Coach Howard Jones was believed to have perfected a new backfield combination, the team entrained for the north.

One more workout today, and the Bears were pronounced ready.

Coach "Nibs" Price has been battling with influenza, but feels he has his charges in excellent shape for the critical conference battle, and optimistically predicts that his Golden Bears will show surprising strength against the highly touted Southerners.

The mental attitude of the Bears has been good this year. They have felt they could win in every game, and experience has shown them to be highly dangerous at any point, and one of the hardest teams on the coast to score against.

The Memorial stadium field is slow this year, due to an attempt to grow new turf, and this is rated as a handicap for the visitors, who figure more on speed than the California eleven. Don Williams, star U. S. C. back, will not be able to make his usual fast starts and quick turns. On the other hand, Trickey Lee Eisan of the Bears will not be able to dodge and squirm with his accustomed ease.



JUST IN TIME!

The game, unquestionably, is the high point of the season for the Bears, who have been underdogs in the conference the past few seasons. If they can win this game they feel they can do anything with anyone the rest of the season.

STANFORD, IDAHO COLLIDE IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Seemingly headed for the Pacific Coast conference championship again, the Stanford football team was to meet the University of Idaho here this afternoon in its third conference clash of the season.

Stanford before putting out any definite claims, however, will have to meet California, Southern California and Washington—and defeat them. Both of the former teams, and Southern California in particular, are also obsessed with the idea idea of a championship, but Washington, with a team that has shown but little to date, is silent.

Idaho, beaten by Montana State and held to a tie by Gonzaga, is not thought to have much of a chance with the Warner-coached team, although the Vandals, with a powerful forward wall, may cause Warner to trot out some of his pet plays before the game is ended.

Anaheim Plans Game Of Night Football

Night football, which may not be as far away as it would appear at first blush, will be given its first Pacific Coast trial in Orange county.

Class C teams of Anaheim and Downey high schools will meet at the Anaheim city park Wednesday night, October 31, in a regular Orange league game. Powerful lights will be installed at the four corners of the field so that as little overhead wiring as possible will be necessary. The contest will feature Anaheim's annual Hallowe'en party which is sponsored by retail merchants.

PLANS FOR 'Y' SPORTS SEASON ARE ANNOUNCED

Dates for inter-association athletic competition have been announced by R. R. Russick, physical director of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., who has had notice from the State Physical Director's society as to the completed plans.

The dates of greatest interest to Santa Ana athletes are those for basketball and volleyball, in both of which events Russick expects to enter teams.

The "Y" basketball season will begin November 1 and continue to February 1, games being played each week during the season, on a schedule which will be issued shortly. Volleyball play will start February 1, at the end of the basketball schedule and will continue until April 15.

Santa Ana is included in a league of Southern California Y. M. C. A.'s which takes in seven or eight cities, so that many good contests are assured in both leagues.

Basketball practice already has been started here, and from the ability of the men who have appeared for preliminary tryouts, Russick expects to have one of the strongest teams he has ever placed on the floor. The first game of the season will be played November 9, probably with Riverside.

Volleyball practice has also been started, although the regular league play is somewhat in the future. Most of last year's powerful squad is back in the game as well as several new recruits who show excellent form.

Dr. H. A. Stryker, chairman of the physical department committee, has announced that the policy of the association, which involves the selection of representative players for the various teams from the regular gymnasium classes, will be strictly followed and that the teams will be composed of men who are faithfuly attending classes, and thus keeping themselves fit to play.

Paolino-Peterson Fight Postponed

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The 10-round bout scheduled last night between Paolino Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight, and Big Boy Peterson, of Chicago, at Ebbets field, was postponed due to rain. The bout will be staged tonight, and will be the last outdoor boxing show for the season.

Bruin Stars Out Of Contest With Hens Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—First prize for hard luck today goes to Bill Spaulding, head coach of the University of California at Los Angeles football team. Injuries since the inception of the present season have prevented Spaulding from starting his first string backfield in a single game.

Now, to top the situation, comes the tiding that Bert La Brucherie and Earl Fields, backfield stars, have been taken down with an attack of influenza and will not be able to play in the game against Pomona tomorrow. This considerably minimizes U. C. L. A. chances to win.

Baker Picked To Defeat Simonich

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Sergeant Sammy Baker, New York welterweight, today was favored to defeat Joe Simonich, Butte, Mont., fighter, when they meet in a 10-round bout here tonight.

DONS TRAVEL TO PASADENA FOR FIRST LEAGUE SET-TO

Santa Ana junior college will make its first bid for honors in the Southern California J. C. conference championship tomorrow when Coach Bill Cook takes the lame, the halt and the blind of his once pretentious Don troupe to Pasadena to oppose the Pasadena Pirates, 1927 conference titleholder and winner of the coveted trip during the Christmas holidays to Hawaii. The contest will begin at 2:30 o'clock and will be held on the Pasadena high school field.

The Dons will enter the lists with only one of their four crippled regulars available. Reginald Rust, triple-threat half back, has recovered sufficiently from injuries to start at his regular position and the big blond should help Cook's offense materially but Bill Dugger, fullback; Bob McLean, tackle, and Jack Casey, guard, are hopelessly out of it. Dugger may be ready next week but McLean is through for at least two more weeks and Casey probably is done for the season.

Cook was not prepared to divulge definitely his starting lineup but it was considered probable that Rust, "Venus" Harvey, "Red" Guyer and Norton would be in the backfield with Warmer and Hafer at ends; Stump and Hylton at tackles; Warner and Griswold at guards, and Captain Woodington at center. Dutton, Harris, Goodbody, Manderscheid, Sweetnam and Tanaka are all likely to see action in the Santa Ana backfield brigade.

The Dons were put through a brisk workout yesterday, specializing on defensive work for Pasadena plays. Light limbering up exercises and a chalk-talk was on the card for this afternoon.

HE'S IN AGAIN BOYS! GRIDDER PICKS SCORES

By GRIDDER

With a grin, a hope and a 1927 record to lend him courage, Gridder today begins his third season of football prognosticating for The Register.

Last year he was fortunate enough to hit several of the biggest games right on the nostrils and finished with a "batting average" of .800. He hopes to start right by connecting on 21 of the nation's most important Saturday struggles.

"Tex" Oliver, the Santa Ana high school coach, will commit hari-kari for the audacity but Gridder thinks Santa Ana will beat Whittier, 13 to 0. And Bill Cook, the junior college boss, will almost die when we jinx him by calling his Dons to slip up on Pasadena by one touchdown.

Well, folks, we'll see you in the funny papers. Here they are:

OLIVER ANXIOUS TO BREAK STRANGE SPELL POET GRID TEAMS CAST OVER LOCALS

By EDDIE WEST
(Sports Editor of The Register)

A big black team from a little white town, Whittier, is coming to Poly field here tomorrow afternoon intent on making a sucker out of Santa Ana high school's football team for the third straight season. The Saints were an easy mark two years ago for the Poets and offered a sort of don't-give-a-darn resistance last fall. If there is anything in mesmerism, the Poets may make it three in a row because in the 1926 and 1927 games "Tex" Oliver's gladiators certainly acted like they were in a trance. Game-time is 2:30 o'clock.

For those of limited memory, the score in 1926 was 20 to 0 and the score in 1927 was 13 to 0. Thus in the past two years Whittier has piled up exactly 33 points on the Saints while the Saints were rolling up the staggering total of nothing on Whittier.

A pall of gloom, thicker than the fog rolling down from Twin Peaks in San Francisco about the time you are reading this, has hung low around the Santa Ana training quarters all week while Coach Oliver, a Dobie and Henderson in one, sounded warnings which would make a fog horn cry for help.

In Bad Humor

Oliver has been harder to talk to this week than Gloria Swanson and more irascible than ever before in his life. He has been busier than a bird dog trying to build up a backfield which in the 0 to 0 game with Long Beach last week for all practical purposes included, reading rapidly from left to right, Reboin, Reboin, Reboin and Reboin.

The good Mr. Oliver would have us believe that he knows not himself the starting personnel of his backfield tomorrow and "Tex" holds one world's record—he never yet has been outguessed by an ambitious newspaperman.

So it is largely a matter of conjecture who will be the three to team-up with Al Reboin, the active and agile young pigskin lugger who made more than 150 yards in a little more than three-quarters of the Long Beach contest. Reboin himself is not making speeches on the corners about how chipper he feels. He has, among other troubles, a bruised leg, a sore rib and a bum arm But Reboin, ill or well, is better than any back Whittier will put on the field so there is consolation in knowing he will be out there in the Saint livery. His forward passing, perhaps the most brilliant act in Reboin's repertoire,

Saints Will Be Register's Banquet Guests

Santa Ana high school's football squad, from the greatest stars to the lowliest substitutes, will be the guest of honor at a banquet to be given by the Santa Ana Daily Register at the conclusion of the present season. Coach "Tex" Oliver today accepted the formal invitation on behalf of his players.

Several novel features are planned for the function and of course the gastronomic entertainment will not be forgotten.

SAINTS BATTLE WHITTIER HERE ON TOMORROW

may suffer because of the lame arm but everything else will be o. k.

They Are O. K. Too

And the rest of the Santa Ana backs are not nearly as bad as it would seem. In fact, Mr. Oliver knows that Lloyd Nuzum, the "Bakersfield Beauty," can run like sixty; that Jack Fredericks can back up a line like nobody's business; that Don Crumley can hit with anyone his size; that Johnny Keeler can do a lot of damage in a broken field; that Clarence Spencer can tackle low and hard; that Jimmie Hall can block remarkably for a man his size; that Harold Pangle is improving rapidly and that all of the other backfield candidates are adept at something or other.

What Oliver is sorry about is that Nuzum can't block as well as run, that Fredericks can't hit the line as well as back it up, and that the various other members of his congregation aren't versatile in all departments of play instead of just one or two.

It is a truth, however, that the interference running of the Saints must improve if the team is to get to first base in the Coast Preparatory league championship race which enters its second week tomorrow with games here, at Alhambra between Long Beach and Alhambra and at Glendale between San Diego and Glendale. South Pasadena and Pasadena were to play today in Pasadena.

Backfield Blockers Needed

Therefore, at least two of the backs who start tomorrow will be blockers, men who can "take" a tackle or iron out an end. And if those who start don't "take" their men Oliver is going to see if he can find somebody else on the bench who can. Thus are heroes made.

"Red" Cooke, the fiery-haired end who rides a tackle or an end, as the case may be, with considerable success, would probably be in the backfield tomorrow if Oliver thought George Berry, Exhibit A of the Saint cripples, was physically able to play Cooke's wing. But Berry is still hobbling so "Red" is not apt to be anywhere else than in the line.

There is nothing in the world wrong with the Santa Ana line and, except for one tackle position there is not much doubt as to who will start unless Oliver wants to fool the boys. Captain "Doc" Hearn and Cooke will play end, Glenn Hartman and Stanley Hardin will play tackle, Gene Olsen and Kenneth Manderscheid will play guard and Curt Youel, the best in the league, will be at center. Hartman may be replaced by Warren Dubois or Alfred Poulsen.

Whittier, loser by a 6 to 0 score in its first league start against Pasadena, has a big line and a fairly heavy set of backs but the line is slow and the backs, except Captain Adams, quarterback, are not Percy Williamses either. Adams looked like a real ball-packer against Pasadena until he was hit hard a few times and then he slowed up to a walk although, of course, it is entirely possible that he was injured early in the game. Rusk, starting his third year for the Poets, is the best man in the line. He plays offensive end and defensive tackle and never wears a head guard. He made life miserable for the Saints last year.

The varsity game will be preceded by the usual Class C curtain-raiser which begins at 12:45 o'clock and finishes at 2:20 unless completed before then.

Tickets for reserved seats will be available tomorrow morning at the Santa Ana book store and the Victor Walker sporting goods store and also at the box office before the game. High school authorities expect a banner attendance because the junior college Dons are playing in Pasadena and the U. S. C. Trojans are in Berkeley. There is no other contest scheduled in Orange county.

Carpenters have completedly repaired the Poly field bleachers which were injured by termites. Old braces have been replaced with new ones and the stands have been declared absolutely safe and satisfactory. A new exit also has been provided.

Free parking for a limited number of automobiles will be available on the north side of the bleachers. Canvas will be stretched around the wire fence on the south side of the gridiron which will be bad news for the folks who in past years have cheated the high school treasury out of hundreds of dollars.

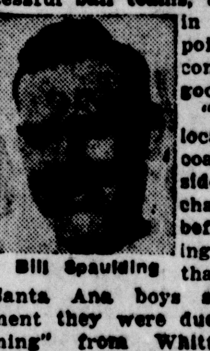
IMPORTANCE OF CONDITION TOLD BY SPAULDING

Success of a football team is not so much the matter of the coach and his tactics or the offensive style he develops as it is the condition of the men, physically and mentally, when the team goes on the field on the day of a contest, William Spaulding, head football coach at the University of California at Los Angeles, told members of the Santa Ana Lions club and members of the Santa Ana high school football team present at the meeting yesterday.

The coach told of some of his experiences on the "battlefield" and as coach, recounted briefly the situation that developed when he was coach for the University of Minnesota team that stopped "Red" Grange.

An open field runner and good line buckers are essential to successful ball teams, the coach said, in stressing a point as to what constitutes a good team.



Bill Spaulding

"Tex" Oliver, local high school coach, who presided as program chairman, said before introducing Spaulding that unless the Santa Ana boys show improvement they were due for a "trimming" from Whittier Saturday, and he assumed a pessimistic outlook for the locals.

Commenting on the attitude of Oliver, Spaulding said it was the custom of coaches to belittle their clubs, and the practice of coaches to believe individually that he has the worst team possible.

Pointing out that a man who thinks he has made the team usually lets down on hard practice work, Spaulding said that football mentors had found by experience that it is not good policy to brag or compliment an individual player who evidences superior qualities.

Spaulding expressed the opinion that the November 3 game between Stanford and U.S.C. would be one of the greatest and closest struggles in Pacific Coast conference history. Spaulding's team, U.C.L.A., went down to defeat last Saturday at Stanford.

Roger Hearn, captain of the Santa Ana eleven, spoke briefly and expressed the opinion that the Saints had a hard fight on their hands in meeting Whittier.

LATHROP LOSES TO FULLERTON 'BEES.' 14-12

Julia C. Lathrop junior high school football team lost a closely contested game to the Fullerton high school Class B eleven yesterday afternoon by the close margin of 14 to 12. Failure to kick goal resulted in the first defeat of the year for the Spartans and it was a hard game for them to lose as they made more first downs and more yardage from the line of scrimmage than the Redshirts.

Two beautifully executed passes resulted in both of the Fullerton touchdowns, one in the first half and the other in the third quarter. Lathrop made its first score when Lewis, quarterback, made a beautiful end run from his own 40-yard line andfi after recersing his field, ran through the whole Fullerton team and didn't stop until he had crossed the goal line.

The big noise in the Lathrop offense was "Plug" Richards, husky fullback, who made gain after gain throughout the contest. He scored the second touchdown in the last quarter after carrying the ball some 45 yards on a series of line bucks and off-tackle plays.

The Lathrop team is not a bit discouraged as a result of this defeat and every Spartan is pointing toward the Anaheim game which is to be placed next Wednesday at Anaheim. The Anaheim "Bees" have a strong club and defeated Fullerton by some 40 odd points, but Coach Ferris Scott hopes to have his boys right.

S. A. Nimrods Off For Hunt In Utah

Ernest Winbigler, together with F. W. Howard, chief criminal deputy sheriff, and George Boyd, county jailer, will leave here Sunday for St. George, Utah, to hunt deer. The trip will be made in Winbigler's automobile and the trio will be gone for about two weeks.

In this section of the state, the season is opened for only 10 days a year, and was opened for the first time last year. Because of this the Santa Anans expect to bring home enough deer to stage a barbecue for their friends, they said.

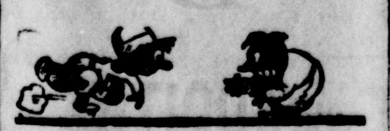
WILLARD FALLS BEFORE STRONG H. B. 'B' TEAM

BY JACK WRIGHT

Coach "Swede" Lund's Frances E. Willard junior high school football players held the heavier Huntington Beach high school Class B eleven to a 19 to 6 score yesterday, their showing indicating that they are on even terms with their rivals in Santa Ana, Julia Lathrop junior high school, which fell before the same team, 19 to 0.

The Indians held the Seasiders scoreless in the first quarter and to one touchdown in the second period. Huntington Beach scored in both the third and fourth quarters and completed a pass over the line for one of the extra points.



Frances Willard was blanked until late in the fourth quarter when Blower completed a pretty pass to Zeke Chavez who ran the few yards to the goal after making the catch.

Benson, Willard's quarterback, was injured in the third period and was replaced by Yorba.

Stars for the Indians were Chavez, Bell, Clark, Mussleman, Blower and Benson. For Huntington Beach, Moore, Gilchrist, Griffith, Koenig and Nangamatsa looked best.

The lineup:

Frances Willard	Pos.	Hunt. Beh.
Wright	REL	Defario

Junior College Classes In Big 'Rush' Tonight

As a part of the Santa Ana junior college rally tonight for the Pasadena junior college football game in Pasadena, Saturday, the two classes of the local college will engage in a flag-pole rush. A pole has been erected on the football practice field, and two runners, each armed with a flag, will start from the front of the college hall and race to the flag-pole, each trying to carry his colors to the top.

Around the pole will be gathered members of the two classes, trying to deter the opponents' color bearer, and trying to aid their own. The penalty for the loser in this contest is that they will have to wear the "beanie" for a week. The "Beanie" is a freshman skull cap.

George Tobias, president of student body; Harold White, president of the sophomore class, and Wylie Carlyle, president of the freshman class, are in charge of the arrangement.

The Greene Murder Case

By S. S. Van Dine

The Story Thus Far:

Philo Vance becomes interested in the Greene Murder Case after Julia Greene is killed and her sister Ada, is wounded. Old Tobias Greene who has been dead about twelve years, left his fortune to his heirs on the stipulation that they continue to occupy the old Greene mansion. There are Mrs. Greene, five children, Julia, Chester, Sibella, Rex and Ada, an adopted daughter. Vance senses an atmosphere of horror and hatred in the house and guesses correctly that the crime is not an ordinary one. But there are no clues except a set of footprints in the snow. Dr. Von Blon, the family physician seems curiously intimate with Sibella. Sibella in a rage accuses Ada of the murder, showing that the family looks with hatred on this outsider.

While the police wait baffled, Chester Greene is shot in his bedroom. There is on his face a look of terror and amazement. Again footprints lead to and from the house. Rex Greene in a fit of rage accuses Dr. Von Blon of the murders.

Ada Greene comes to District Attorney Markham's office and tells him that Rex knows something he will not tell. They decide to get Rex to the office and telephone him for that purpose. Five minutes later the word comes in that Rex has been shot to death in his bedroom. Ada is almost prostrated with fear.

Dr. Von Blon is in the house at the time of the murder but he is with Sibella and there is not a clue except the inevitable set of footprints outside the house. Vance is positive that these merely serve as a blind and that the criminal is one of the family in the house. Of the six heirs there are left only Mrs. Greene, who is a helpless paralytic, Sibella and Ada.

Von Blon reports that deadly doses of morphine and strychnine have been stolen from his bag at the Greene house. A doctor is posted across the way in case of need, and the police wait helplessly for the next of these terrible crimes. Ada tells Vance that she saw her mother walking in the hall the previous night. Later Dr. Von Blon says that the paralytic could not possibly walk. They agree to have her examined by an expert. Ada is poisoned with morphine. The doctor stationed by the police reaches her in time to save her life. The police learn nothing except that the poison was in her bouillon and that Dr. Von Blon was in the house that morning. The following evening Mrs. Greene dies of strychnine poisoning. There is no evidence as to who poisoned Mrs. Greene. Dr. Von Blon had called to see Sibella the previous night, who with Ada are the only survivors of the horrible series of crimes.

CHAPTER 32

"Fancy that, now. And how do you happen to know about it?"

"Didn't I let him in?"

"Oh, you did? What time was this? And where was Sproot?"

"Mr. Sprott was eating his dinner, and I'd gone to the front door to take a look at the weather when the doctor walks up. 'Howdy-do, Hemming?' he says with his oily smile. And he brushes past me, nervous-like, and goes straight to Miss Sibella's room."

"Perhaps Miss Sibella was indisposed and sent for him," suggested Vance indifferently.

"Huh!" Hemming tossed her head contemptuously and strode from the room.

Vance rose at once and rang again for Sproot.

"Did you know Dr. Von Blon was here last night?" he asked when the butler appeared.

The man shook his head.

"No, sir. I was quite unaware of the fact."

"That's all, Sproot. And now please tell Miss Sibella we'd like to see her.

"Yes, sir."

It was fifteen minutes before Sibella put in an appearance.

"I'm beastly lazy these days," she explained, settling herself in a large chair. "What's the party for this morning?"

Vance offered her a cigarette with an air half quizzical and half deferential.

"Before we explain our presence," he said, "please be good enough to tell us what time Dr. Von Blon left here last night?"

"At a quarter of 11," she answered, a hostile challenge coming into her eyes.

"Thank you. And now I may tell you that both your mother and Ada have been poisoned."

"Mother and Ada poisoned!" She echoed the words vaguely, as if they were only half intelligible to her; and for several moments she sat motionless, staring stonily out of flintlike eyes. Slowly her gaze became fixed on Markham.

"I think I'll take your advice," she said. "I have a girl chum in Atlantic City. * * * This place is really becoming too, too creepy." She forced a faint smile. "I'm off for the seashore this afternoon."

For the first time the girl's nerve seemed to have deserted her.

"Your decision is very wise," observed Vance. "Go, by all means; and arrange to stay until we have settled this affair."

She looked at him in a spirit of indulgent irony.

"I'm afraid I can't stay so long," she said; then added: "I suppose mother and Ada are both dead."

"Only your mother," Vaince told her. "Ada recovered."

"She would!" Every curve of her features expressed a fine arrogant contempt. "Common clay has great resistance, I've heard. You know, I'm the only one standing between her and the Greene millions now."

"Your sister had a very close call," Markham reprimanded her. "If we had not had a doctor on guard, you might now be the sole remaining heir to those millions."

"And that would look frightfully suspicious, wouldn't it?" Her question was disconcertingly frank. "But you may rest assured that if I had planned this affair, little Ada would not have recovered."

Before Markham could answer she switched herself out of the chair.

"Now, I'm going to pack. Enough is enough."

When she had left, Heath looked with doubtful inquisitiveness at Markham.

"What about it, sir? Are you going to let her leave the city? She's the only one of the Greenes who hasn't been touched."

We knew what he meant; and this spoken suggestion of the thought that had been passing through all our minds left us silent for a moment.

"We can't take the chance of forcing her to stay here," Markham returned finally. "If anything should happen. * * *"

"I get you, sir." Heath was on his feet. "But I'm going to see that she's tailed—believe me! I'll get two good men up here who'll stick to her from the time she goes out that front door till we know where we stand." He went into the hall, and we heard him giving orders to Snitkin over the telephone.

Five minutes later Doctor Doremus arrived. He was no longer jaunty, and his greeting was almost somber. Accompanied by Drumm and Heath, he went at once to Mrs. Greene's room, while Markham and Vance and I waited downstairs. When he returned at the end of fifteen minutes he was markedly subdued, and I noticed he did not put on his hat at its usual rakish angle.

"What's the report?" Markham asked him.

"Same as Drumm's. The old girl passed out, I'd say, between 1 and 2."

"And the strychnine was taken when?"

"Midnight, or thereabouts. But that's only a guess. Anyway, she got it along with the citrocarbonate. I tasted it on the glass."

"By the by, doctor," said Vance, "when you do the autopsy can you let us have a report on the state of atrophy of the leg muscles?"

"Sure thing" Doremus was somewhat surprised by the request.

When he had gone, Markham addressed himself to Drumm.

"We'd like to talk to Ada now. How is she this morning?"

"Oh, fine!" Drumm spoke with pride. "I saw her right after I'd looked at the old lady. She's weak and a bit dried up with all the atropine I gave her, but otherwise practically normal."

"And she has not been told of her mother's death?"

"Not a word."

"She will have to know," interposed Vance; "and there's no point in keeping the fact from her any longer. It's just as well that the shock should come when we're all present."

Ada was sitting by the window when we came in, her elbows on the sill, chin in hands, gazing out into the snow-covered yard. She was startled by our entry, and the pupils of her eyes dilated, as if with sudden fright. It was plain that the experiences she had been through had created in her a state of nervous fear.

After a brief exchange of amenities, during which both Vance and Markham strove to allay her nervousness, Markham broached the subject of the bouillon.

"We'd give a great deal," he said, "not to have to recall so painful an episode, but much depends on what you can tell us regarding yesterday morning. You were in the drawing room, weren't you, when the nurse called."

"You saw the nurse when you came upstairs?"

"Yes; she was just going toward the servants' stairway."

"There was no one in your room here when you entered?"

She shook her head. "Who could have been here?"

"That's what we're trying to find out, Miss Greene," replied Markham gravely. "Some one certainly put the drug in your bouillon."

She shuddered, but made no reply.

"Did any one come in to see you later?" Markham continued.

"Not a soul."

Heath impatiently projected himself into the interrogation.

"And say; did you drink your soup right away?"

"No—not right away. I felt a little chilly, and I went across the hall to Julia's room to get an old Spanish shawl to put round me."

Heath made a disgusted face, and sighed noisily.

"Every time we get going on this case," he complained, "something comes along and sinks us. If Miss Ada left the soup in here, Mr. Markham, while she went to get a shawl then almost anybody coulda sneaked in and poisoned the stuff."

"I'm so sorry," Ada apologized, almost as though she had taken Heath's words as a criticism of her actions.

"It's not your fault, Ada," Vance assured her. "The Sergeant is unduly depressed. But tell me this: when you went into the hall did you see Miss Sibella's dog anywhere around?"

She shook her head wonderingly.

"Why, no. What has Sibella's dog to do with it?"

"He probably saved your life."

And Vance explained to her how Sproot had happened to find her.

She gave a half-breathless murmur of amazement and incredulity and fell into abstracted revery.

"When you returned from your sister's room, did you drink your bouillon at once?" Vance asked her next.

With difficulty she brought her mind back to the question.

"Yes."

"And didn't you notice a peculiar taste?"

"Not particularly. Mother always likes a lot of salt in her bouillon."

"And then what happened?"

"Nothing happened. Only I began to feel funny. The back of my neck tightened up, and I got very warm and drowsy. My skin tingled all over, and my arms and legs seemed to get numb. I was terribly sleepy, and I lay back on the bed. That's all I remember."

"Another washout," grumbled Heath.

There was a short silence, and Vance drew his chair nearer.

"Y" CYCLERS PLAN TRIP TO COUNTY PARK

Saturday morning's program at the Y. M. C. A. this week includes one feature which will be new to most of the boys by T. P. Mc boys' work secretary, announced today. This is to be a "bicycle hike" to Orange County park.

Boys over 12 years of age, who have dependable bicycles, are to be taken on this trip. They will bring their lunches to the "Y" building, whence the food will be transported by automobile, so that the boys will not be impeded in their riding. The cavalcade will leave the building at 10 a. m., proceeding to the county park, where they will play games and enjoy outdoor amusements, eat their lunch, rest a while, and then start home. They are due to return to the "Y" at 3 p. m., for a swim, as a conclusion for their excursion.

McKee stated that about 30 boys already have signed up for the trip, and that he does not expect to take more than 50 altogether, for the ride.

For the younger boys, there will be offered a program of games and play in the gymnasium swimmers at 9:45. Many boys are being taught to swim in the classes, but there is room for still more to enter at present.

Under the present policy of the boys' work committee, Saturday morning is being used as a very special time for entertainment and play for the 700 boys who are now members of the Santa Ana "Y."

The articles were reported stolen on October 7 and included 20 music cones, a wrench, emery wheel, two circular saws and a speed indicator.

Much of the stolen property was said to have been found in a junior high school here in the possession of other young boys.

According to a police report, the boy has confessed to the theft.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS NOVEMBER 8 SOUSA DAY IN HONOR OF DIRECTOR'S VISIT TO CITY

Father's day is important, and Mother's day is still more so, but of all the days introduced to Santa Ana, the one occupying the public mind at present to the exclusion of all others, is Sousa day, which is to be celebrated with all due ceremony on Thursday, November 8, when Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa, internationally famous composer and conductor, will be a guest in the city.

For yesterday a proclamation setting aside that date as Sousa day, was made by Mayor Frank Purinton, following receipt of a telegram from Sousa to Walter Spicer, president of the Santa Ana Lions club, accepting the club's invitation to be honor guest at luncheon that day at St. Ann's Inn. This will precede the matiness program at 3 o'clock in Santa Ana high school auditorium when the famous conductor and his band will appear.

Coincident with the receipt of the telegram, President Spicer called a meeting of his board of directors and it was unanimously voted to make the luncheon an open one and issue special invitation to other service clubs of the city, with wives of the members, to joint in the celebration, and make it a truly gala affair.

The reason for special rejoicing lies in the fact that the veteran director of the United States Marine band is celebrating his golden jubilee this year, which completes his fiftieth consecutive year in the public eye as the outstanding director and composer of the age.

Expect Capacity Audience

The Santa Ana high school with S. T. Mustol, director, feels especially self-congratulatory on the fact of succeeding in bringing Sousa and his organization to this city, and all indications point to a house crowded to its capacity when he appears at the high school auditorium for his concert at 3 o'clock.

Plans already under way are for the Santa Ana Municipal band and the high school band to meet the distinguished guest when his private car draws into Santa Ana, and escort him to the Inn where he is to be the Lion club's honor guest. The high school band has been further honored by being asked to play one number on the program, with Sousa himself wielding the baton. Director Mustol already is rehearsing the organization in several of the maestro's own compositions in preparation for the event.

The formal program selected for the afternoon will be announced in the near future. But it is an open secret that Sousa is particularly generous with encores, and when he finds that his music meets with hearty response from an audience, he will play on and on. So the Register is suggesting that anyone interested in hearing certain celebrated band numbers or Sousa's own compositions, write or communicate with this paper, stating that preference, and the requests will be handed to him in advance of the afternoon program, with full assuance that his generosity will dictate their use as encore numbers.

Known as "March King"

Known all over the world as the "March King," Sousa not only has hundreds of march and similar compositions to his credit, but has composed ten operas and several suites. It is hoped that he will play his famous suite, "At the King's Court" on his Santa Ana program.

Unusually fine solo artists traveling with the organization include Miss Marjorie Moody, soprano; William Tong, cornet; Howard Goulden, xylophone and Miss Winifred Bambrick, harpist.

NOTED DIRECTOR

Every inch a lieutenant commander, John Philip Sousa is pictured as he appears when conducting his famous band. Santa Anans are to have the privilege of hearing the internationally known composer-conductor in concert at the high school auditorium, on the afternoon of Thursday, November 8, at 3 o'clock. The concert is to be presented under the auspices of the school and high school band.

CROSSING BOND ISSUE HIT BY COMMISSIONER

J. P. Baumgartner, state highway commissioner, in a statement prepared for presentation at the meeting of the La Habra Kiwanis club, yesterday, when the Santa Ana club provided the program, reiterated a former statement that he is opposed to the $10,000,000 bond issue for elimination of grade crossings throughout the state.

Baumgartner was unable to be present because of pressing business matters requiring his attention, and Dr. MacVicker Smith, president of the Santa Ana club, read the statement.

The commissioner pointed out that new roads could not be added to the state highway system except by action of the state legislature and refuted reports to the effect that northern California is getting more than its share of the highway funds.

Baumgartner said persistent reports that Southern California is not getting its fair share of highway funds are due to pernicious political activity, misinformation and non-information.

Much Work Seasonal

Admitting that on the surface it does appear that a disproportionately large amount of work has been contracted in the north end of the state, Baumgartner said the fact is that by Jan. 1, 1929, the situation will be just the reverse.

"Work planned for Southern California during the winter months will increase the obligations against the southern funds from now on very rapidly," the commissioner said in his statement. "Much work is, necessarily, seasonal. This applies particularly to northern California and to the desert area of Southern California.

"In order that you may have a more accurate conception of the effect of the winter season, which now is approaching, on our highway program, which shows for the next few months expenditures accelerated in Southern California and retarded in northern California. I am giving you hereunder an analysis of projects completed, under construction, and being advertised for bids, as of Jan. 1, 1929:

"State highway maintenance fund: Major improvements north, $5,852,743.65; major improvements south, $5,325,501.50.

"State highway construction fund: Primary north, $3,967,245.81; primary south, $3,613,349.08; secondary north, $779,565.33; secondary south, $1,331,816.50.

"Items from third state highway fund should be added as follows:

Primary north, the sum of $65,000, making total of $4,032,245.81; primary south, $844,000, making total of $4,457,349.08; secondary

E. B. Howell Talks On Amendments Before Placentia Club

Members of the Round Table club were given the opportunity to learn something of the twenty-one amendments which are on the November ballot, at Wednesday's meeting.

Mrs. Nadine Crump Howell of Los Angeles was scheduled to speak on legislation but feeling that the amendments were the important subject at present, she delegated her husband, Edward B. Howell, to speak for her.

Mr. Howell gave a short synopsis of each amendment and of the situation involved, which has brought that question to the ballot.

Among the communications read at the business meeting, was a letter from the committee on the federal plan re-apportionment, asking all possible publicity on the subject.

The California Federation of Womans' clubs asked help in arousing public opinion against billboards and statue advertising except in commercial districts.

Mrs. Albert Launer, president of the Orange county federation requested a good attendance at the county convention October 26 at Huntington Beach and also asked the club for a picture of the clubhouse and a statement of the property valuation.

Mrs. W. J. Travers announced that the Book-lovers section would hold the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Cohoe and that meetings would be on Mondays of the club week.

Mrs. W. W. Blackmer, spoke of the conference at Berkeley and asked support for the public park bond, Amendment No. 4.

Mrs. W. J. Carmichael gave an interesting talk on "International Relations," speaking of the Peace treaty, the Nicaraguan election on November 4, the resuming of diplomatic relations between Chile and Peru, and America's recognization of China's Nationalistic government.

Announcement was made of a breakfast at the Newport Yacht club at 11 o'clock Saturday, when 29 teachers of the grammar schools will be guests of the club. The program is in charge of Mrs. Twombly and Mrs. McColloch, Mrs. A. Anderson, Mrs. A. M. Christensen and Mrs. J. Farrel are in charge of transportation and the executive board members, hostesses. Everyone will meet at the Round Table club at 9:30.

The president, Mrs. T. L. McFadden, asked that all members, when paying their dues, put the money in an envelope on which is written their names.

Miss Anita Shepardson had charge of the music, and introduced Ben Switzler, who gave two xylophone solos.

Two new members, Mrs. William Wallop and Mrs. Frank Rospaw were introduced to the club.

Mrs. C. C. Chapman gave the treasurer's report and announced that plans were under way for the purchase of a grand piano for the clubhouse.

Hostesses of the day were Mrs. Travers, Mrs. Blackmer, Mrs. Nenno, Mr. Knight, Mrs. Krick, Mrs. Cohoe and Mrs. Twombly.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

KITCHEN GOSSIP THAT ISN'T TRUE

Some years ago—just about the time aluminum cooking utensils made their debut—the claim was made that aluminum utensils made for better health for the reason that there was nothing to chip off and be taken in food, and that enameled ware was unsafe for that reason.

A lot of people believed it then, just as they are now listening to the propaganda against aluminum ware and the claims that are being advanced that aluminum may be sometimes responsible for cancer.

If you have a complete assortment of either ware, just take all such talk with a big grain of salt and refuse to throw away your god equipment. You are only robbing Peter to pay Paul and someone else, not you, is the gainer by this subtle bit of kitchen gossip.

TODAY'S RECIPE
VEGETABLE MILK SOUP

- 3 large potatoes
- 1 large onion
- 1 head of celery
- 4 small tomatoes or
- 1 cup canned tomato
- 1 small bell pepper
- 1 quart hot water
- 1 rounded teaspoon salt
- 2 cups rich milk
- 2 tablespoons butter

Some will read this recipe through and when they come to the green pepper they will say, "Ann always takes the joy out of everything for me. Now why did she have to insist on having a green pepper in this soup when they are practically out of season?"

For the good reason that this recipe is planned for the whole year and not for between seasons. True, peppers may not be gettable but certainly the can of PAPRIKA is ..and ripe sweet peppers, dried and powdered, make paprika. So—season according to the season.

Prepare the vegetables and dice fine. Set them to cook with the quart of salted water; when the vegetables are done combine the soup with the hot milk and butter and serve with plenty of hard toasted rounds of bread placed in each soup plate with the soup poured over. This gives The Family a nourishing and valuable soup, supplying the Lime and Phosphorus we have been discussing this week.

The tomato in the vegetable part of the soup may curdle the milk a tiny bit. Serve it so if you have the courage of your convictions; if not, when the milk is hot add the tiniest pinch of soda to it before the vegetable part is mixed in. Soda neutralizes the tomato acid and makes the soup better to look at, but, not so good for YOU.

There are 250 calories in each of the four portions of soup—peppy but not fattening ones.

When you have odds and ends of wholewheat bread do not throw them out. Save every last bit, dry thoroughly in the oven and roll it, rather coarsely. Use it, half and half, in making muffins.

Grape-nut muffins are supposed to be a great treat; do you know that this cereal is made from whole-grain BREADS, baked, sliced, toasted and ground, according to a commercial process?

This recipe is only one of the suggestion you will find in the current leaflet, CRUMB RECIPES, free, this week if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for its return.

Madeira Cake is that rich yellow cake full of candied citron and cherries which we admire in pastry shops but fail to buy because of its cost. I am giving a good recipe for this cake tomorrow. It is a fine cake to make and put away with fruit cake for winter use.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the First Presbyterian church was held in the church Wednesday afternoon.

After a devotional period led by Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, Mrs. Davis presided at the business session.

The members voted to send $50 to help rebuild the hospital at Porto Rico, which was damaged by a recent storm.

Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Chatman sang two songs, "Savior With Me" and "My Sunshine." Robert Bradford sang, "Trees," and for second number "Tally Ho."

There was a short intermission during which doughnuts and coffee were served.

After this a woman's chorus was organized, under leadership of Miss Armstrong.

They are to meet in the church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. All ladies of the church who are interested please be present at that time.

Tustin Missionary

Members of the Presbyterian Missionary society held their meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. E. Utt of Lemon Heights. Promptly at 2:30 o'clock the members opened their business meeting with Mrs. R. E. Carswell in the chair. Of the many items of business at this meeting, the one of special interest was work among young people. Mrs. C. P. Marshall, Mrs. Deitrick and the Rev. Shiffler reported a good beginning of the junior Christian Endeavor society, and the pastor made an earnest plea for help in this work.

Thirty garments were reported ready for the box work and arrangements were made to send canned fruit to the school in Los Angeles. The guests enjoyed an interval of music when Miss Marjorie Rawlings sang "The Garden of My Heart" and a duet with Mrs. Jessie Johnson. Mrs. Johnson also sang "Oh Love Divine." They were accompanied by Mrs. Carswell at the piano. The hostess, assisted by Miss Rawlings, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Greenwood, served a delicious chocolate and cream confection with cake, wafers, coffee and tea. Those present were Mrs. C. P. Marshall, Mrs. C. L. Hallett, Mrs. W. L. Leihy, Mrs. Oscar Leihy, Mrs. W. L. Shatto, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Elofsen, Mrs. Lake, Mrs. Curtis Greenwood, Mrs. C. E. Greenwood, Mrs. Earl Marshall, Mrs. Eva Logan, Mrs. P. H. Ebell, Mrs. B. F. Beswick, Mrs. R. E. Carswell, Mrs. C. A. Weise, Mrs. Bertha McMillan, Mrs. Dr. Robertson, Mrs. Geo. Brown, Mrs. Custer, Mrs. W. S. Suddaby, Miss F. Stone, Mrs. A. D. Turner, Mrs. Wm. Catterwhite, Mrs. Utt, Miss Rawlings and Mrs. Johnson.

Foreign Missionary

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First M. E. church held its first meeting of the year Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Evalene Peo, the retiring president, called the meeting to order and introduced Mrs. S. E. Hearn, the new president, who made a gracious speech of acceptance Mrs. Hearn asked for a continuation of co-operation of each member to make this year's work one of advance.

The devotional period was taken by Mrs. F. H. Lazenby, who spoke of the firm foundation on which a Christian may build. She introduced Mrs. Harry Hays and Miss Folsom who gave in music what Mrs. Lazenby had spoken of as they sweetly sang, "I Know That My Reedeemer Lives." Mrs. W. B. Snow was at the piano. The work of the past year was well reported by the department secretaries and showed advances over the previous year. "Faithfulness brings results," the recording secretary quoted at the class of her general report.

The treasurer reported a total of $2087 raised during the year. Miss Blanch Collings, the program leader, gave a brief review of the first chapter of the study book. She told how the land we now call Africa was at one time known as "Our beach" or "Our forest" by the natives.

Music enjoyed during the afternoon was a solo, "Aunt Annie," by Miss Ann Wetherell, with her mother as accompanist; a whistling solo "By the Waters of Minnetonka" by Miss Audrey Fey, Mrs. Jack Snow accompanying. Miss Fey responded to an encore with "Just a Wearyin' For You." Dr. Warmer gave a word of congratulation on the work of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society.

Faholo

An interesting attendance contest was ended last night when one-half of the Faholo Sunday school class of the First Baptist church entertained the other half at dinner at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Price, 820 French street.

The contest has lasted over a period of several months and was held in an effort to keep the attendance up during the summer months. The dinner was given by the losing side.

Table appointments were carried out in orange and black and small nut cups and favors expressed the Hallowe'en motif.

The program for the evening included an amusing shadow screen play taken from "Lord Ullin's Daughter," several readings by Mrs. W. E. Denniss, and vocal solos by Miss Laura Joiner.

Those present for the affairs were Mrs. Elizabeth Price, hostess, Mrs. W. A. Atkinson, teacher; Mesdames J. C. Johnson, C. E. Bacon, Roscoe Moore, Hugh Neighbour, Ada Cave, Leah Elliott, John Newcomer, Carl Garnett, Mabel Morris, Misses Irene Cravath, Laura Joiner, Emma Lee Johnson, Vera Coad, Ruth Coad, Viela Pride, Grace Peterman, Hazel McFarland, Mildred Marchant, Edna Ingham, Belle Collins, Naomi Keller, Virginia Craig, W. E. Denniss, Huntington Beach Mrs. Hopkins, Vancouver, B. C., Canada.

Friendly Tea

A large group of women enjoyed the Friendly Tea Wednesday afternoon in the First Baptist church parlor.

Mrs. E. A. Maher and her co-hostesses had skillfully adorned the parlor with Hallowe'en colors and ghostlike figures. Games appropriate to the season were played.

Groups were designated by witches and black cats for a handshaking contest—right hands being sacked in orange tissue paper bags.

The tearing of jack-o'-lanterns from pumpkin colored paper exposed the cut-out-artists in the company. Fortunes were drawn from black cat receptacles, the reading of each item being much enjoyed.

The serving of doughnuts and coffee gave opportunity for a conversational period. These teas are sponsored by the women handling the finances of the Women's society.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION
Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. Just two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.
You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Claiming that his older brother, Albert, 18, used the family parlor every night in which to entertain his girl, and that he and the rest of the family had to go upstairs to bed at 9 o'clock, Charles Tooker, 16, of Nyack, N. Y., went to court and asked that something be done to restore his parlor and downstairs rights in his home.

The judge called Albert in. He explained that the girl couldn't entertain him in her home because there was no room, and Pa and Ma and the kids had to use the sitting room; that he had no car; that it was getting too chilly for the park benches; that he didn't have money enough for movies every night, and that it was sit in his own Pa's parlor or see his girl.

The judge seemed to think, however, that Charles and the rest of the family had their rights, too, so he told Albert to go and sin no more and to pay a $10 fine. Albert couldn't do that, either, so he went to jail. Now brother Charles, smitten by what he has done, is trying to raise the fine for Albert and says he can use the family parlor all he wants to.

There is much food for thought here. Since all the world loves a lover and lovers, and since sympathy is always with young lovers and their obstacles, the first sympathy turns towards Albert and his girl.

Sometimes, though, one wonders if the world doesn't grant too many special privileges to lovers, young and otherwise, when the very fact that they have love in their lives should, perhaps, make them the ones to grant special privileges to those less favored.

Youth, especially youth in love has a little habit of exploiting all other personal relationships in order to gain anything for the only person that counts. Sometimes it takes other forms than usurping the family parlor, regardless of the plans of the rest of the family. Maybe the judge was not so harsh at that!

Rather queerly, almost an identical type of woman is heroine of two of the fall's best books. Chrisabel Caine in Anne Parish's "All Kneeling," and Claudia Haldane in Mathilde Eiker's "The Lady of Stainless Raiment," are both that well known type of woman who insists on being worshipped on her pedestal as a creature all too sweet and good for human nature's daily food, regardless of less holy creatures whom she crushes beneath her feet as she clambers to the pedestal top.

Find any nation, if there is one, where the men outnumber the women to any extent, perhaps to the tune of two to one, and you will find a nation extremely bare of women working "outside the home." Women enter the trades and professions and become lawyers and brick layers and ticket sellers and typists only in the proportion that domestically is difficult to obtain. A nation which would make it possible and probable for every woman to be married is a nation without problem.

"Hey! What has happened! Goodness me!" cried Scouty, "just where can we be?" Our little sparrow's flown away. He's far, far out of sight. And, look! Our plane is perched up high upon a mountain top. Oh, my, we're left in quite a risky fix. We're in for it all right."

Then Coppy joined right in and said, "It's funny we don't go ahead, and topple down the mountain. I'm so scared I'm really weak. Our poor old sparrow surely tried to keep us on this wondrous ride, but when some shots rang out I guess 'twas better that he sneak.

"But, look, there is no need to fret. No real harm's happened to us yet. Our plane is perched upon the peak. I do not think 'twill slip." "That's just the trouble," Carpy said. "Why, we can't even go to bed. Where could we sleep? It's our own fault for starting on this trip."

The whole bunch sat and thought a while. They knew they were at least a mile from level ground. This surely was an awful break of luck. How could they get to earth again? Of course the whole bunch, now and then, got in some bad predicament, but this time they were stuck.

At last brave Scouty shouted, "Say, I think that we can get away. Let's all move forward on the plane and try to make it slide. If we do this, with real good care, and coax the plane out in the air, I'm sure we'll keep it level so 'twill take a graceful glide."

The plan was tried, and in a bit they found that they were moving it. It started tipping forward. Then it left the mountain peak. Out in the air, real safe and sound, it glided downward toward the ground. The Tinies were so tickled that they all began to shriek.

(The Tinymites have a thrilling ride in the next story.)

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

A wise lawyer knows that if he wishes to command the attention of his hearers in a courtroom, he must keep his temper and his voice under control.

The minute he loses either he sacrifices his hold on his audience.

A teacher who has to thump her rattan on her desk for attention, is acknowledging her inability to get the attention of the children in any other way. She may startle the school into sitting up for a minute but they will soon forget and slump back into inattention and disorder.

If mothers begin to raise their voices and adopt the tones of a top sergeant when speaking to their children, the effect is going to wear off in a short time. After while, as likely as not, their children won't pay any attention to them whatsoever.

They may obey for the time being and jump to attention, but under all true obedience there must be respect, and do any of us respect the person who tries to bulldoze us into action by sheer acoustic prowess?

We should try to think of children as we think of grown-ups. They aren't any different. They have the same likes and the same aversions that grown-ups have.

We must get over the idea of "bossing" them into obedience if we would get results. We must treat them with the same consideration we bestow upon our friends, courteously and quietly.

In spite of the fundamental rules of behavior upon which every home must be run, there should be politeness and friendliness. Raised voices and a show of temper are the most impotent and useless things in the world.

"Her voice was soft and low—an excellent thing in a woman," said Shakespeare. "Men, too!" say I.

AT THE THEATERS

YOST SPURGEON

Hundreds of schools throughout the world attempt to teach stutterers how to speak without impediment, but there is no place where one can learn to stutter. Josephine Clark found this out when she first read her part in "Happy Days," the new musical comedy coming to the Yost Spurgeon theatre on Sunday, matinee and night.

Miss Clark, who is a dancer in addition to being a musical comedy actress, plays Mary Smith, the little stuttering girl who goes to a sanitarium to be cured of her affliction. The first two acts of the play are written so that she must stumble, vocally, over her lines.

"Some people may think that it is hard to cure a stutterer, but I find it hard enough to imitate one, "Miss Clark says. "There is always a tendency to break through the stuttering and speak the lines normally.

Patrons desiring the best seats for "Happy Days," are urged to reserve them in advance at the Yost Broadway theater.

WEST COAST-WALKER

The story of "Two Lovers," the picture in which Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky make their last co-starring appearance at the Walker theater, was selected by Samuel Goldwyn in an international contest that had 40,000 entries.

More than a year ago, shortly after Mr. Goldwyn had decided to split his famous team of stars, he announced that a prize of $2500 would be paid to the film fan suggesting the best idea for the final Colman-Banky picture.

From every state in the union, from every country of Europe, from South Africa, South America, the Orient and Australia, letters swamped the Goldwyn office. Novels and plays were suggested that no one could remember.

After six weeks, during which his specially improvised scenario department worked eighteen hours a day seven days a week, the tabulation showed that more than thirty contestants had suggested the Baroness Orczy novel, "Leatherface," a best seller some fifteen years ago. When an examination of the records was made, it wos found that Betty Osborne, a 16-year-old school girl of Milwaukee, Wis., had been the first to submit the idea.

WEST END

"Painted Post," the screen adaptation of Harry Sinclair Drago's thrilling story in which Tom Mix is starred and which is showing at the West End theater, is one of the finest stories in which the Western star has appeared.

The cast includes Natalie Kingston, Al St. John and Fred Gamble.

YOST'S BROADWAY

Beautiful an ddelightful as Irene Rich is, in the picture, "Craig's Wife," now on at the Yost Broadway, Carroll Nye is suspicious of her interest in him, for it is the second time in the course of a few months that the mercenary little Mrs. Craig seeks to wreck a love romance for him. Happily the situations are make-believe only.

Warner Baxter will be seen as Miss Rich's husband in "Craig's Wife," with Lilyan Tashman, Ethel Wales, Jane Keckley, George Irving, Mabel Van Buren and Raida Rae also in important roles.

Added entertainment is offered by the presentation of a mystery play on the boards, "Wandering Spooks." Shots in the dark! Mysterious noises! Hands appearing from nowhere! Eyes blinking from mid air! And a famous dancer accused of stealing a diamond necklace which has been placed in her pocket by an unseen person. There are many more thrills and tense situations than we have time to write about.

You must see "Wandering Spooks" if you are in search of an exciting as well as an enjoyable evening. Of course there is the love element; the innocent being made to suffer for a crime they never committed; the hard-boiled detective who tries to fasten the crime on someone whether guilty or not. In fact a splendid play and plot.

HELGA - By FANNIE HURST

The crash came when Buster was seventeen.

There was to be a reception for Buster, who had been graduated from high school with high honors. Sunday was settled on and the guests bidden when the flushed and excited Mrs. Wyant burst in upon Helga with her plans.

IN the phraseology of the housewife, Helga was the sort of servant it is impossible to get any more.

The Wyants, for whom she had worked in the capacity of maid-of-all-work over a period of fifteen years, admitted the rarity of this household jewel of theirs.

Helga was an American-born girl of Finnish extraction who, somehow, by a miracle, had not changed with the times.

At eighteen, when her braids had been taffy yellow and her broad, rather spatulate face had been tinged with the quality of youth, there had been a young baker's apprentice in Helga's life. That much she once confided to Mrs. Wyant. He had married another.

Two weeks later, a girl with the first youth well washed out of her wide, blonde face and a certain heavy stolidity to her wide-framed but lean body, had answered a newspaper advertisement, inserted by Mrs. Wyant, who was then a bride, for a maid for general housework.

FIFTEEN years later, the Wyants still occupied the same modest apartment on upper Broadway, Bill Wyant still held down the same bookkeeper's stool in a wholesale lace concern, and except for the advent of Buster, aged fourteen now and in first year High School, the household itself had not changed any more than the blonde stolidity of Helga.

With the exception of Helga's raging loyalty and affection for a life-time friend of hers named Elsa, who lived in a scraggly suburb outside the city limits, where her husband was employed in a large soda-cracker factory, Helga's interests were solely and enthusiastically the Wyants.

While her devotion to the three children of her friend Elsa was something that Mrs. Wyant used to say passed all understanding, her next extravagant devotion was Buster. Between him and the three children of Elsa, practically every penny of her earnings went for stuffed cats, kiddie cars, domino sets and such. In fact, Mr. Wyant finally had to put his foot down where Buster was concerned, and forbit Helga to spend any more of her well-earned income on the child, who not only had learned to look to Helga for indulgences, but had come to demand them. If Mrs. Wyant denied her son, for instance, the kind of fireworks on the Fourth of July which she considered dangerous for him, it was Helga who could be secretly prevailed upon to gratify him. All that was maternal in Helga seemed concentrated on these children. First, the three belonging to Elsa. Then Buster.

She indulged them all. Put pennies and dimes in their banks, bought them forbidden sweets, took them to the circus, indulged them in a dozen and one small ways. She spent not only her money, but she lavished her affection and care on them. Spent lavishly of all her maternal feelings and instincts of these four children whom she loved.

SMALL wonder Helga remained in that exclusive category of the perfect servant. Except for her Sunday afternoons, not one of which she had missed in the fifteen years, and for her Christmases, Thanksgivings, and birthday excursions to the home of Elsa, Helga's time was solely at the disposal of her employers.

She washed for them, cooked, did housework, nursemaid duty, marketed, mended, scrubbed and kept watch, in an age where domestic labor was as specialized as a profession.

Not one of Mrs. Wyant's friends had a house-girl, for instance, who would do the laundry work, much less tend child, wait on table, cook and combine her labors as did Helga.

She was a gem. Mrs. Wyant knew it, so did Bill Wyant. And Buster, without realizing any aspect of it all, adored her.

Every June when Wyant won the spurs of his fortnight vacation and took his family for holiday to the farm of his parents in the hills of Vermont, it was Helga who sent them off bag and baggage, saw to it that Buster was the pink of starched perfection, packed the family trunk, arranged the impeccable family lunch, made sure that the collapsible drinking cup was in Mrs. Wyant's handbag, Buster's toys in the valise and the toilet articles of the three of them perfectly arranged in little rubber bags that Helga had made and embroidered with their respective names.

Two weeks later the Wyants, tanned, refreshed, glad to be back, returned to an apartment that had been renovated from top to bottom during their absence. Floors had been painted by Helga. Hangings had been jerked down, laundered, their ruffles pleated with a fine point iron and hung again to delight Mrs. Wyant's eye with their immaculate rightness.

Everything had been freshened—just like the Wyants. At all times immaculate, the little apartment shone and gleamed in more cleanly splendor than ever. It looked as if it, too, had had a vacation. And it had. A vacation when, under the ever busy hands of Helga, it had been scoured and painted and polished.

It was nothing for Helga to do over a piece of furniture, tearing out its upholstery, re-covering, varnishing, rejuvenating.

WHEN the train from Vermont arrived, the Wyants trooped home to a steaming dinner table laid out in their favorite dishes. Corn on the cob for Bill. Cauliflower au gratin, for Mrs. Wyant, which her threat of plumpness usually forbade. Hasty pickles, strawberry jam tart and a Finnish pudding of macaroons and whipped cream for Buster.

There was only one proviso in these tireless activities of Helga's. The Wyants never dared return on Sunday or create any of their activities around that day. It was an unwritten law in that household. Automatically the family obeyed it. For fifteen years of Sundays, without one interruption, Helga had folded away her apron at one o'clock, tidied up, to the smallest detail, and sallied forth, bundle-laden, to the house of Elsa.

The journey was Helga's religion. Her week revolved around it. Her shopping expeditions were in the name of Elsa and her children. Helga's Sundays were her life. The Wyants, without quite realizing it, abided by her wish. Sundays, after one o'clock, Helga's busy little kitchen was a tomb, the small cubby hole of a room she occupied off that kitchen lifeless and a dreary place to Buster, who had practically been reared in it.

WHEN Buster was seventeen the crash came. He graduated from the local high school with high honors. The Wyants, to say nothing of Helga, were bursting with pride in him. The Wyants decided to hold a reception. Sunday was settled upon and the guests bidden when the flushed and excited Mrs. Wyant burst in upon Helga with her plans.

And Helga stood there, stolid, unbending.

What Helga was this?

Sunday? Helga's Sunday out?

No.

It was unthinkable, it was incredible, it was as gross a case of ungrateful disloyalty as had ever come under the eyes of the Wyants.

HELGA, for the first time in her years with them, had been asked to remain home of a Sunday, and that Sunday Buster's honor graduation party, and had refused. Point blank. Stolidly. Her day off was hers! Inviolate.

Why, the Wyants had treated her like one of the family. Why, one summer coming from Vermont, Bill had forgotten her present, a large can of maple sugar out of which Helga made delicious syrup for griddle cakes, and had rushed two miles back to the farm for it at risk of missing his train.

Why, every Christmas of her life Helga had received three brand new white aprons, a neat black uniform, a lace-edged maid's cap and a pound of chocolates!

Why, a girl like Helga, a hunk, if the truth were known, without an outside interest except, Elsa, a loutish country girl who came to town once in a while and sat in the kitchen while Helga brewed Wyant tea for her, to stand up in that picayune fashion for her day out! Buster's graduation, mind you!

Telling it, Mrs. Wyant actually wept. Tears over the loss of Helga, tears of disillusionment. Tears for the good old days that were gone.

A hunk of a girl like that—without an interest—

THE hunk of a girl, however, had an interest. That interest was her life. Her life consisted of the vicarious one she lived through Elsa, who had won away and married the young baker fifteen years before.

The glimpse of their home every Sunday afternoon was to Helga the glimpse of what her own home might have been. The glimpse of the stolid baker's apprentice, who had thickened into a loutish fellow, was the glimpse of what the perfection of life might have meant to her if she had won him, instead of Elsa. Their three children, chubby ones with thick wrists, were Helga's vicarious three children.

Helga without an interest? When Mrs. Wyant asked her to give up a Sunday at the home of Elsa, she asked her to give up all that gave life its meaning.

Once a week and once a week only, Sunday afternoon, was Helga allowed this glimpse of what her home, her husband, her children, might have been.

BACON—IT'S NUTRITIVE VALUE AND PLACE IN DIETETICS

It is estimated that man in his ordinary pursuits needs from 2800 to 3500 calories daily, and it has been determined that a pound of bacon alone would practically supply this demand. Owing to its inherent superior qualities along certain lines, bacon is a part of the ration of every army in the world. This, of course, is no accidental selection. Governments naturally pay especial attention to the welfare of their fighting men and the food selected is made by trained specialists who must make every vitamin and calory count.

Cudahy's Puritan Ham

Finer Flavor because—ripened naturally

Distinguished in name. Puritan Ham is—"First in the Land," because of its finer flavor and greater tenderness.

Puritan owes this distinction to the special Cudahy method of curing—"ripened naturally."

This method naturally diffuses the sweet juices of the young meats selected for Puritan, without forcing or hurrying.

The result is likened to fruit tree-ripened compared to fruit artificially ripened. You'll thoroughly enjoy Puritan Ham.

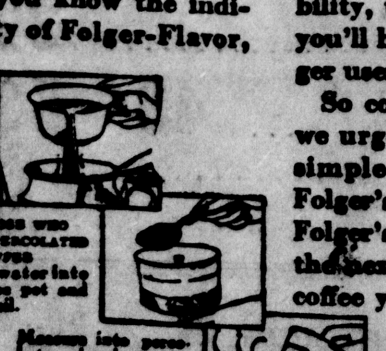
THE FINE ART OF FOLGER FLAVOR

Folger-Flavor . . . because I like it!

AND that, coffee lovers everywhere, is the real reason for the increasing popularity of Folger-Flavor . . . because she and thousands of others like it!

Once you know the individuality of Folger-Flavor, know its unfailing dependability, the chances are that you'll become a regular Folger user.

So convinced are we that we urge you to make this simple test. Buy a can of Folger's Coffee today. Drink Folger's tomorrow morning; the next morning drink the coffee you have been using; the third morning drink Folger's again. You will then decidedly favor one brand or the other. The Best Coffee wins. That's fair, isn't it?



Mrs. [illegible]'s Recipe

FOR THOSE WHO PREFER PERCOLATED COFFEE

Measure water into clean coffee pot and bring to boil.

Measure into percolator basket one rounded tablespoon of FOLGER'S Coffee for every cup of water.

When water is boiling furiously put basket in. Seven minutes is right time to "perk" for average strength.

CROSSING BOND ISSUE HIT BY COMMISSIONER

north, $260,000, making total of $1,042,565.22.

"By this you will see that some time prior to Jan. 1, 1929, projects under way in the south will exceed the south's pro rata. However, with spring work opening up again in the north, this difference will be adjusted.

"There ought to be an exact balance between the north and the south, as per the Breed law division of the funds, by June 30, 1929, unless it developes that some of the budgeted projects become frozen because of legal inhibitions.

"Now, as to the inclusion of new roads in the state highway system. It may as well be understood now and finally that if this is done at all, in any instance during the next two years it will have to be done through the legislature and probably over the governor's veto. This, of course, is an expression of my personal opinion; but that opinion is based upon the repeated commitment of the governor, the last legislature, the department of public works, the highway commission and the department of finance to the policy of no additions to the state highway system until all the roads already included therein have been constructed. And of such roads there are over 3000 miles, on some of which the state has done no work whatever."

Mr. Baumgartner then reviewed the manner in which California collects and expends the funds by which its state highways are being constructed and maintained, and made it clear that the highway commission has little opportunity and no disposition whatever to play favorites in the apportionment or allocation of funds.

"The distribution of state highway money is determined by certain very definite legal requirements and economic facts," he said.

"The two-cent gasoline tax collected by the state, is divided equally between the state and the counties. The counties' share of this money is in turn prorated on the basis of their relative automobile registration. The law requires that the state's share of this fund be devoted to widening, thickening, reconstruction and maintenance of existing highways. No portion of it may be used for new construction.

"The one-cent gasoline tax goes in its entirety to the state highway system, and may be used for new construction only. However, it is subject, under the terms of the Breed bill, to distribution both upon a geographical and a road-classification basis. The 45 counties in the northern group receive 54.7 per cent of 75 per cent of the money raised under the bill for primary roads and 50 per cent of 25 per cent of the money raised under the bill for secondary roads. The 13 counties comprising the southern group receive 45.3 per cent of 75 per cent of the money raised under the bill for primary road construction, and the same quota for secondary roads as is accorded these state highways in the northern group of counties."

Opposes Bond Issue

In conclusion the highway commissioner said:

"Another matter which I feel very strongly should be brought to public attention, and to which the public should give attention, is the proposed $10,000,000 bond issue for elimination of grade railroad crossings. I am opposed to this bond issue and I believe the state highway commission, the department of public works, the department of finance, the governor and the state administration generally are opposed to this bond issue. Mind you, I am speaking for myself only when I say I am opposed to this bond issue and am only expressing an opinion, when I say I believe the others I have mentioned are opposed to it. And I will express a further personal opinion to the effect that I believe the state departments, divisions and officers I have mentioned will go on record as opposed to this bond issue.

"The reason for objection to it is that the voting of the proposed bonds would not accelerate the work of elimination of grade crossings. It takes more than money to effect grade crossing separations, the consent and co-operation of the railroad companies, the railroad commission and, in many instances, of states, counties and individual property owners are necessary. Moreover, I believe that the highway commission has, and will have, all the money it needs for the elimination of grade crossings as fast as the work can be done practically and economically; indeed, as fast as the preliminary work of getting the state, the railroads and other interests in line, and doing the engineering work, can be accomplished.

"We are making fine progress now, with this work, in co-operation with the railroads on a 50-50 basis."

Woman's Union

The Missionary department of the Congregational Woman's Union met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. E. M. Nealley at her hospitable home in Tustin for the regular monthly meeting. Mrs. E. M. Blake, president of the department was in charge of the program which was opened with a much enjoyed piano duet (Oberon) by Mrs. W. H. Crose and Mrs. Livesey. In the devotional service Mrs. C. F. Crose brought out the thought of the importance of choosing the spiritual rather than the temporal, the vital rather than the trifling things of life.

Mrs. Blake reviewed an address by the world renowned missionary, Dr. Barton, on "International Diplomacy and Friendship" in which he tells of the wonderful progress of Christianity in Turkey. Mrs. Livesey accompanied by Mrs. Crose sang a beautiful and touching solo, "Ye Must Be Born Again." Mrs. Beals gave an entertaining report of the meeting of the executive board of the Woman's District association. Mrs. Tople spoke of our mission field in Czecho Slovakia and Bulgaria.

At the business session members were urged to attend a meeting of the Woman's district association to be held at South Pasadena, October 25.

The chair appointed Mesdames P. L. Tople, L. B. Van Matr and Ferry as a committee to secure clothing and money for the mission station in devastated Porto Rico.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. E. M. Nealley for her cordial hospitality and to Mrs. Livesey for cheerful, willing service as a member of the music committee.

Wafers and sherbet were served at the close of the program.

BONDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Convertible bonds and issues with speculative features again finished the bulk of business in the bond market today. Andes Copper 7's turned over in huge amounts, running to 164, up 3 points and holding most of the gain, while Anaconda 7's spurted to a new high at 148, up 4 points and Liquid Carbonic 6's up nearly 3 points.

Several issues of the domestic group were in good demand aside from the Coppers. Pathe 7's and Simms Petroleum 6's rose more than a point each and American Sugar 6's, Dodge 6's and Philadelphia Company 5's made advances of ½ point each. Tractions ruled steadier.

Railroad bonds improved under the leadership of New York, Chicago and St. Louis 5½'s A which rose nearly a point. Demand was noted also for Missouri-Kansas Adjustment 5's, New Haven 4½'s, St. Louis San Francisco 4½'s and Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh 4½'s.

Poland 8's were most active of the foreign group, but they held around the previous close. Fiat issues continued to gain while Dominican first 5½'s of 1942 were carried up nearly a point. U. S. Government loans were dull and slightly easier.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(UP)—No let-up in demand for stocks was in evidence in curb market dealings today and further violent uprushes were staged in recent speculative favorites. For dMotor of Canada soared more than 10 points and new 1928 tops weer achieved by Apponaug, Budd, Butler and Galesburg Coulter Disc, the latter issue rising nearly 10 points.

Anglo-Chilean Nitrate continued well bought and a considerably better tone was in evidence in both the petroleum and utility divisions. American Gas and Electric added several points to its four-point advance of the previous session and sharp gains took place in Electric Bond and Share securities and Brazil Light.

Darby Petroleum sold off after selling at a new high, but new leaders like Standard Oil of Kentucky and International Petroleum were brought forward on heavy dealings.

Interest in the mining shares was again centered on Newmont, which moved up more than a point on heavy dealings.

By BUD FISHER

JEFF, IT STATES HERE THAT A LEARNED PROFESSOR IS IN FAVOR OF MAKING EVERY VOTER UNDERGO A MENTAL TEST TO SEE WHETHER OR NOT HE IS INTELLIGENT ENOUGH TO VOTE AT A PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION. HE SUBMITS FIVE QUESTIONS FOR EACH VOTER TO ANSWER!
WHAT ARE THEY?
AT WHAT AGE IS A YOUNG OYSTER SELF-SUPPORTING? DOES AN INCUBATOR CHICKEN HAVE ANY PRIDE? IF RUBBER DIDN'T STRETCH, WHAT WOULD IT DO? WHY DOES TIME MEAN SO LITTLE TO A SNAIL? AND LAST, WHAT ARE THE MOVIES FOR, AND IF SO, WHY? CAN YOU ANSWER THEM?
I HOPE NOT!
THEN YOU CAN'T VOTE! WHAT ARE YOU LAUGHING AT?
I JUST HAPPENED TO THINK OF SOMETHING FUNNY.
I CAN'T VOTE ANYWAY! I DIDN'T REGISTER! TEE HEE!!

ORDINANCE NO. 2700

An ordinance of the City of Pasadena calling and providing for the the holding of a special election in said city and certain other cities herein named, pursuant to the provisions of the "Metropolitan Water District Act" of 1927, and consolidating said election with the general election of November 6th, 1928.

WHEREAS, pursuant to the provisions of the Metropolitan Water District Act of 1927, the Board of Directors of the City of Pasadena on the 15th day of February, 1928, duly enacted an ordinance entitled: "An Ordinance of the City of Pasadena declaring that public convenience and necessity require the incorporation of a Metropolitan Water District, naming the cities proposed to be included therein, fixing the estimated cost of incorporating and organizing the proposed district, and apportioning such cost among the municipalities proposed to be included within such District."

said Ordinance being Numbered 2636, to which reference is hereby made, in which ordinance certain cities in the State of California, including those named herein, were named as proposed to be incorporated into a district to be known as the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California; and under the provisions of said Act the City Clerk of the City of Pasadena thereafter duly transmitted a certified copy of the said ordinance by registered mail to the chief executive officer of each of the municipalities named therein; and

WHEREAS, more than sixty days but less than one hundred and twenty days have elapsed since such ordinance was transmitted to each of said cities, and the legislative body of each of the cities hereinafter named has duly approved the said ordinance without alteration or amendment, and the legislative bodies of other cities named in said ordinance have expressly or constructively rejected said ordinance;

NOW THEREFORE, in accordance with the provisions of said Act, the Board of Directors of the City of Pasadena ordains as follows:

SECTION 1. That a special election shall be held and is hereby called to be held in each of the hereinafter named cities, respectively, on the 6th day of November, 1928; and said election is hereby consolidated with the general election to be held throughout the State of California upon the said 6th day of November, 1928.

EVENING SALUTATION

I must think that difficulties nerve the spirit of a man—they make his Prime Objects a Refuge as well as a Passion.

—John Keats.

A JUDGE AT THE BAR

A Los Angeles judge of the Superior Court accepted a check from Aimee McPherson and her mother which he says was partly for legal and partly for friendly advice, and it was prior to Aimee's indictment.

When an attempt was made by the State Bar to investigate, the judge refused to be sworn and testify. An attempt was made to punish him for contempt and the argument was made by his attorneys that the judge was not a member of the State Bar because he could not practice law. Hence he was not amenable to discipline by the State Bar. The discipline can come only through the legislature or by the recall; in other words no court action can reach him, only political action.

The main point is that he admits receiving the money partly at least for legal services while he was a judge on the bench. If he is allowed to give advice to Aimee, is there any reason why he should not seek employment from Hickman or any other person whomsoever? If one judge may do it then all the judges may. Doesn't this open up a fine state of affairs among judges and that part of the public who need a friend at court.

A lawyer who accepts a fee from a client is in duty bound to do whatever he legally can to advance the interests of his client. Who is in a better position to help his client than one of the judges, even if he does not preside at the trial?

Lord Bacon, one of the greatest judges who ever sat on the bench of England, was disgraced for life and deposed from his position for accepting a gift from a litigant in his court after judgment was rendered, and even when it was admitted that his judgment was a just one.

This action of Judge Hardy tends to break the confidence of the people in judges and courts and bring them into contempt and when this confidence is gone there is little left but chaos. Human nature being what it is we can think of nothing more important in the administration of human affairs than the absolute integrity of judges and the avoidance of any act which would tend to lead people to think a judge could be influenced, and especially by money payments: this is true even if the judge does not try the case.

This whole incident however brings in something refreshing and wholesome. The youngest of the Los Angeles County judges was appointed to preside at the hearing on the contempt matter of Judge Hardy. Marshall F. McComb while deciding Hardy should not be held in contempt took occasion to point out publicly and in a court room crowded with lawyers with Judge Hardy standing at the bar, the utter lack of ethics and subversion of the proper relations between a judge and the public. This action of Judge McComb took courage of a high order and showed the moral caliber of the young judge.

The very fact that the action of Judge Hardy in accepting money under the circumstances has caused such a stir is evidence that such acts are not only unusual but almost unheard of among judges. They receive and deserve the confidence and respect which courts have always been given by the people. This event and its publicity more than ever insures that such lapses will not take place.

A man fined $1 in a New York court for a traffic violation had only a $5000-bill and a $1000-bill on his person. Probably he was just on his way to buy a couple of sandwiches and a glass of ginger ale at a night club.

BRYAN LEAGUE ENDORSES HOOVER

The Bryan Democratic League of New York, which was organized in 1900 to support William Jennings Bryan, has endorsed the candidacy of Herbert Hoover for President. The League declares that in their belief, if Bryan were living he would do the same as the League has done.

We believe that the League is correct in this interpretation of Mr. Byran's spirit. William Jennings Bryan, from the time he entered Congress to the time forty years later when he was stricken down, stood for nearly everything politically which the present candidate on the Democratic ticket is against, and was against everything that the present candidate is for. This, to be sure, is not literally true because there are some general principles of Democracy which are held not only by members of the Democratic party but by all men. On these and on matters of social welfare Mr. Bryan and Governor Smith would undoubtedly agree. We refer to such things as protection of children in employment, the minimum wage for women, and similar things. But on the great issues which are challenging the attention of the voters at this present hour, Mr. Bryan not only took an opposite view from that held by Mr. Smith but he fought Smith and his organization openly and frankly, called Tammany by name, and made a declaration that any man who owed his nomination and election to such an institution could not be trusted with the reins of government.

More than this, Mr. Bryan felt that the greatest moral and political issue before the people of the United States was the retention and the vindication of the 18th Amendment and the Volstead act. There was nothing except convictions upon what he felt to be religious verities which could arouse the great commoner to give of his time, gifted tongue, and purse as could this cause. Everyone who knows of his life knows that these convictions grew upon him, and almost with his latest utterance he reaffirmed them.

More than this, we know everywhere in the north that those who admired Mr. Bryan and were his devoted followers are today declaring themselves as supporters of Mr. Hoover, and those in the south who are not doing so are making apology and defense for the action.

Yes, the Bryan League in New York simply brings into the open a very apparent fact.

SOME RED TAPE CUT AWAY

There is quite a network of international cooperation on other matters than armaments and disarmament matters, and war and peace. For example the United States, unofficially is co-operating with the labor bureau of the League of Nations and with the league's health department.

Recently there was made public an agreement between twelve nations for the detection of smugglers of narcotics. These nations have agreed that the narcotic secret services of their countries shall communicate by cable with the secret service in other countries whenever a suspicious person or cargo or ship leaves one of the countries for another. The countries signing the agreement are the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Spain, Czecho-Slovakia, Japan, the Free City of Danzig and Denmark.

The agreement marks the first time in history that foreign government agencies will communicate with each other without going through the roundabout channels of their foreign offices and also the first time that a government has shown willingness to give evidence to other governments which incriminates their own nationals.

Hitherto instead of cabling direct to the treasury officials in another country about those who are charged with smuggling narcotics, an official who had such information had to inform his own foreign office which in turn informed the State Department, which in turn informed the foreign Treasury Department.

The only marvel of the new step in efficiency is that it was not taken long ago.

A DARK HORSE

Over in Dallas, Texas, the city fathers helped the cause of Communism and the Royalist League of America by denying them speech in the auditorium and thereby gaining for the Communists and Royalists the support of the Civil Liberties Union. The Royalist who was the second to be denied the auditorium wired the headquarters of the Civil Liberties Union to which organization royalists and communists and outlawed D. A. R. members and striking laborers and high school teachers of Tennessee are all one; beneficiaries of their aid if they have been denied the Constitutional right of free speech.

So when the royalist in Dallas wired the Civil Liberties Union for aid they wired back: "Will gladly help you if denied the rights of free speech and assembly. Will you join us in effort to extend same rights for Communists whose Vice-Presidential candidate was denied use of City Hall Auditorium? Who is your candidate for king?"

Now who can doubt the sanity and sense of the Civil Liberties Union after that last question? No one who can recognize humor. We can see them in the New York office adding it to the message, chuckling the while, and recalling some other groups of funny people with an idea or a cause which they wanted to talk about which had been dignified only when some city fathers expressed fear of it. A touch of humor renders most of the ideas harmless.

"Who is your candidate for king?"

The "Equinoctial" Acquitted

Christian Science Monitor

Although there is a persistent and widespread belief that the equinox, and especially the autumnal equinox, is a time when violent storms are to be expected, trained observers of the weather have long ceased to give any credence to this theory. The assumption that the sun's crossing of the equator is a cause of atmospheric disturbances dates from the time when astrologers strove to account for all earthly phenomena by the movements of the heavenly bodies.

That this belief should have endured as long as it has in western Europe and America is all the more surprising in view of the fact that its falsity was proved many years ago. Hardly had accurate weather observations been made for a period long enough to justify definite conclusions when it was seen that violent storms were no more frequent about the equinoctial seasons than at any other time. As early as 1884 the head of the British Meteorological office, Dr. Robert H. Scott, read a paper before the Royal Meteorological Society in London containing statistical evidence to prove that, in the British Isles and vicinity, there was no marked preponderance of stormy weather at either the vernal or the autumnal equinox. Only five years later a similar conclusion was arrived at, for the United States, by Prof. H. A. Hazen of the United State Signal service, who published the result of his investigations in the Monthly Weather Review for November, 1889. He summed up the result of his researches in the words: "The conclusion is inevitable that the observations do not show a preponderance of storm action during the equinoxes."

No more recent evidence is forthcoming to prove the existence of "equinoctial" storms. Seamen and others who have cherished the belief that "line storms" are regular and inevitable should rejoice to see one more bogey laid to rest.

Upkeep On Beauty

New York Times

Probably nobody remembers what first occasioned that sage remark, "It's not the original cost, but the upkeep." Nowhere does it more fitly apply than in the field of good looks. For the most part, beauty is native, a gift of the gods, with no charges to pay. But keeping beautiful despite work, worry and advancing years is an expensive matter. Cosmetics, massage and plastic surgery all help in preserving beauty, and the maintenance charges are high.

To an actress beauty is a business asset. Like a sensible business woman, she devotes care, time and money to her personal appearance. In the case of at least one actress the amount of money spent for massage was deducted from her income tax report as a legitimate business expense. The total for 1923 to 1925 was $1,524.24—quite an item. The claim was disallowed, but is now before the Appeals Board.

The actress's logic seems perfectly sound. If an automobile company is permitted to deduct maintenance charges and operating expenses, why shouldn't a young woman who makes her living by acting be allowed the same privilege in the matter of keeping her equipment in good repair? Surely the authorities would not prefer to have her let the upkeep go and put in a deduction for deterioration of plant.

EDUCATION

In all my life, I admit
I've never seen a worm that bit

Nor do I ever think I'll see
The creatures bare their fangs at me.

But in my youth I had to learn
The platitude "The worm will turn"

And to this day I do not dare
To touch a caterpillar's hair

When with a worm I bait my hook
And he gives me an ugly look

Or wrinkles up his nose at me,
I always wince and set him free,

Although of course quite well I know
That I could fell him with a blow.

Until my life has run its term
I'll always hate and fear a worm,

Because that adage, in my youth
Impressed me as a vital truth.

And still I hardly realize
That proverbs are not always wise.

VIOLENCE

Some people still put their reliance in force.

But it is eternally true that they that take the sword shall perish by the sword.

The Czar's rule was one of force and it disappeared in a cloud of blood. The Soviet rule also originated in force, is carried on by force, and will probably come to the same bloody conclusion.

The autocracy of Napoleon was a fitting end to the violence of the French Revolution.

Force is a deceptive shortcut to efficiency.

There is only one thing that can maintain the perpetuity of a government and that is respect for law.

People must learn to be good losers. They must quit seeking to right their wrongs by violence.

There are some who still believe that the best government is autocracy limited by assassination.

But the whole world is struggling upward toward the realm of law. Not only must wars cease as a means of settling international disputes, but violence must cease as a means of righting real or imagined political injuries.

There is no remedy for acts of violence, in the long run, except the widespread and gradual respect for law.

There is no complete personal liberty nor compete national stability except under law.

Government by public opinion, which is another name for democracy, cannot be established unless there is a universal respect for life.

Ideas cannot be assassinated. Killing a person is the argument of a brute. Men should recognize that their only legitimate competition is by ideas.

Those who hope for a revolution, or a new order of things, should be satisfied with argument. The resort to bullets always does their cause more harm than good.

We can only hope and pray that our neighboring republic will cease to depend upon violence and come under the general rule of law.

It may be hard for people of hot blood to submit peaceably to conditions which they deem to be tyrannical and wrong. They have a perfect right to work against these conditions and may be assured that after a while if their cause is just it will prevail.

Universal education, respect for life and universal obedience to law is the only remedy, in the long run, for violence.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

BOOBS AND BRAHMANS

There has been slowly growing up in the America of the last few years—the years of Main Street and Babbitt—a theory that we are not one nation but two.

A nation of the civilized minority.

A nation of the crack-brained majority.

The crack-brained majority, the booboisie, the Main Streeters, the Babbitts, are supposed to be unqualified victims of stupidity and superstition, crude and credulous, hungry for humbuggery, eager to be exploited by quacks and fanatics and charlatans, men and women with egg-shell minds that can be bounced and blown about by every kind of doctrine.

The civilized minority is supposed to be immune to the siren call of the charlatan, clear eyed and clear minded, incapable of being swayed by the manias of the mob mind, spiritually independent, men and women who are captains of their own souls, minds that cannot be blown about by every kind of doctrine.

Nathaniel Hawthorne, speaking of the part his New England ancestors played in the execution of Matthew Maule on the charge of witchcraft, said:

"He was one of the martyrs to that terrible delusion which should teach us, among its other morals, that the influential classes, and those who take upon themselves to be leaders of the people, are fully liable to all the passionate error that has ever characterized the maddest mob. Clergymen, judges, statesmen—the wisest, calmest, holiest persons of their day—stood in the inner circle round about the gallows, loudest to applaud the work of blood, latest to confess themselves miserably deceived."

Gilber Seldes has written a book—The Stammering Century—that is an illuminating study of the cults and manias that marred the life of the nineteenth century in America, and the net effect of the book is to confirm this contention of Hawthorne's quoted in the introduction.

"The astounding thing about the quackeries, fads, and movements of the past hundred years in America," says Mr. Seldes, "is that they were first accepted by superior people, by men and women of education, intelligence, breeding, wealth, and experience. Only after the upper classes had approved, the masses accepted each new thing."

The civilized minority and the crack-brained majority are brothers under the skin.

The Brahmans go "to Harlem in a taxi" to see the Negroes.

The Booboisie go "to Chinatown in a bus" to see the Chinamen.

Boobs and Brahmans need to close ranks for a common fight against the universal human weakness of gullibility.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

EIGHTH GRADE EDUCATION

We are saying that all children ought to have eighth grade education or its equivalent, before permitting them to work. We are generally agreed that children should have a long protected childhood during which time they are to be educated to the highest possible standard in harmony with their abilities. So far, so good.

But not all children have the ability to take eighth grade education as usually offered by the schools. Not all children can master grammar and history and algebra and written composition and literature as required by the usual eighth grade course of study. Many of them slow down at the fifth year and a great many more, at the seventh. Are they to be held marking time in the school benches until they accumulate enough birthdays to free them from the law? Are they to know the education law only as a bond upon their liberties?

That must happen where the schools make no provision for those boys and girls whose tastes and powers are not those of the book-minded child. In any school you may see children of the early teens, bodies well matured, sitting in the small benches provided for the younger children.

They are not feebleminded boys and girls either. They are boys and girls whose physical development has outstripped their mental development. The mental development reached its maximum early, while the physical development was rapid in the extreme. Such bodies and minds demand work within the powers of the individual. It ought to be supplied by the school. Most of the time it isn't. The "slow" children are kept in school until they have the right age for a discharge card. Unhappy, disorderly, or half asleep they clutter up the class rooms and waste precious time of their own and their mates.

These children must be provided for if we are to do justice to a big group of young people. It is not fair to set them aside as hopeless because they need a DIFFERENT education from their bookish mates. They are entitled to the training that will bring out their gifts to the fullest stage of development, to their highest power. Whatever gifts they have and be assured they have some, are to be made the most of and trained to service. That means that we ought to have in every school two parallel lines of education, bookish with some hand experiences; hand experiences with some book work. That is a crude way of putting it but it is the basic idea of a complete school system as far as the courses of study go. ALL children are entitled to a good eighth grade education but education is not functioned by sitting in a bench term after term, marking time until the right birthday comes around.

I am against child labor. There are enough able bodied men and women to do the work of the world. The children are to have their childhood, their education, their training and so be fitted for fine citizenship. But just passing a law regulating ages won't do that. The schools must be manned and equipped for the task. Is yours?

(Mr. Patri will be glad to answer any inquiries from parents or school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
